Marquette Sheriff To Question Trio Held at El Paso

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A migrant farm worker has admitted the shooting of a Wisconsin youth slain along a lonely rural highway, police said today.

Three migrant workers were being held here, awaiting arrival of Wisconsin authorities, while three other men were still being sought.

Police said Rogelio B. Buhat, 29, signed a statement admitting the shooting of Peter Stewart, 20, Montello, Wis.

Stewart was found lying fatally wounded beside his car on Highway 23 west of Montello late Friday night. He had been shot three times, once in the face and twice in the back.

Held with Buhat were Edward Sava, 23, and Ricardo Martinez Pastor, 20.

The three were seized Monday by El Paso police maintaining surveillance at the home of Sava's parents. Buhat and Pastor listed Los Angeles addresses. Police said all three were Filipinos.

Marquette County Dist. Atty. Donn Dahlke said warrants were signed by County Judge J. K. Callahan charging the men with first degree murder. Sheriff Arden Atkinson and Columbia County Detective Capt. Robert Hamel left today for Texas with the warrants. They planned to drive to Chicago and take a plane from there to El Paso.

El Paso police said the three told them they had been in Wisconsin about two weeks and had been staying at a farm labor camp near Montello.

Police quoted them as saying they were driving down a road when they came upon an argument involving Stewart and three other men. The shooting followed.

Stewart was shot with a .22 caliber revolver, investigators said.

Officers said the three first denied any knowledge of the shooting.

They said the men did not resist when apprehended.

Buhat, Sava and Pastor were among four persons sought after Wisconsin authorities said they failed to appear for work Saturday at a farm in the Montello area.

Just before the slaying Stewart had driven home a 16-year-old girl, Jennifer Norton, who said migrant workers were bothering her.

In Wisconsin, investigators said a swarthy-complexioned man reportedly bought .22 caliber bullets at approximately the same time Friday night.

An Oxford, Wis., couple, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Goodhue, told authorities they saw Stewart's car stopped between two other vehicles on the highway. They said they heard a scream and three shots. The Goodhues said the other persons jumped in their two cars and sped away.

A 10-year-old car described by Goodhue resembled the description of the car which a farm operator said was driven by the temporary workers who did not report Saturday.

Mariner About Finished With Picture Relays

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Mariner 4 forged well into the homestretch today in relaying to earth a possible 21 photographs of Mars — pictures of what some scientists said could be vegetation.

Jet Propulsion Laboratory Director William H. Pickering said the rest of the Mars pictures would not be made public for "a matter of weeks" after the last picture has been received next Saturday.

The path of Mariner 4's fly-by past Mars last Wednesday indicated its eighth and subsequent pictures, taken less than 8,000 miles from Mars, might show dark areas which some experts think could be some form of plant life — though one unknown on earth.

250 Are Expected to Attend 'Little People's' Convention

GLoucester, N.J. (AP)—Did you ever visit a hotel and find the shower spigots too high?

Or have you tried to make a telephone call and found the mouthpiece too far above the floor? Most likely not. But then, you're probably not one of the "little people."

Some 250 persons were expected today for the seventh annual convention of Little People of America Inc.

The only requisite for admission to the organization is that the applicant be less than 4 feet, 11 inches tall.

The group has about 1,800 members "and there are probably many more in the United States (who qualify) but we haven't heard of them," said a spokesman.

"We have problems that normal people don't have," said George Baehm III of New York City. "At these annual conventions we are able to discuss those problems in addition to introducing little people to other little people."

"Had I not gone to the convention in North Carolina in 1962," said the 4-foot tall Baehm, "I'd not have met my wife." Baehm's wife, Christine or "Tina," is 3-foot-11.

Difficult Problem Baehm, who works for his family's Baehm Container Co., said among the problems facing little people is employment.

"As the public is becoming adjusted to our size," he said, "more opportunities arise."

Very few of Little People of America's members are employed in show business, he said. They are active in "almost every occupation you can think of."

Probably the biggest problem facing them is simply that the world is designed for tall people.

Pickets Attacked

Bogalusa Negroes Accelerate Tests

BOGALUSA, La. (AP)—Civil rights forces step up public accommodation tests, picketing and a march today following Justice Department action with suits to halt police officials and the Ku Klux Klan from interfering with demonstrators.

A. Z. Young, president of the Bogalusa Voters League, told a rally Monday night of the plans for widespread public accommodation tests and demonstrations. He said that Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. John Doar, on a peace-making mission to the racially torn town, "had brought something to town that we had lost."

Young said, "We had lost confidence in the federal government—the FBI."

KKK Strong "At one time, we thought anything could be solved by the FBI. But these Kluxers in Bogalusa were so strong that they had the FBI eating out of their hands."

Young did not elaborate after making the comment at the mass rally.

Doar, who heads the civil rights division of the Justice Department, filed suits in U.S. District Court at New Orleans Monday to halt city police officials and the KKK from interfering with civil rights demonstrators.

He also asked that Public Safety Commissioner Arnold Spiers and Police Chief Claxton Knight be held in contempt. Doar was on hand Saturday when white bystanders attacked a group of biracial pickets outside a shopping center about a

Senate Group May Split on Redistricting

Dirksen Amendment Lets States Decide On Reapportionment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen today carries his fight for a constitutional amendment on legislative reapportionment to the apparently equally divided Senate Judiciary Committee.

Barring last-minute shifts in position, the prospects pointed to an 8-8 tie vote. This would deny Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, the majority support he needs to bring the issue before the Senate itself.

Conceding the possibility of such an outcome, Dirksen reiterated to reporters his determination to get Senate action on the proposed amendment on which President Johnson has made no public statement but which Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is actively fighting.

'I'm Determined' "I am a determined man," Dirksen told reporters. He would not indicate how he would overcome a committee setback.

But he is at liberty any time to move to substitute the proposal for any measure now on the Senate calendar.

Dirksen wouldn't speculate whether a threatened filibuster by liberal opponents of the reapportionment proposal would delay the Labor Day adjournment of Congress and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield are seeking.

Dirksen and Mansfield expect to take up that matter at a meeting Thursday or Friday with Johnson. The Republican leader observed that up to this point Johnson has given no indication he would be willing to let some of his legislative proposals go over until next year's session.

Parts Can Go Over Mansfield told a Democratic conference Monday he believes parts of the program can go over.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., apparently destroyed Dirksen's chances for a favorable committee vote on the Illinois senator's proposed reapportionment amendment when he offered a revised version of it.

Javits announced that if his substitute is rejected, he will vote against Dirksen's version in committee.

Both the Dirksen and Javits proposals would permit the voters of each state to decide whether they want one house of their legislature apportioned on other than the population basis ordered by the Supreme Courts in its one-man, one-vote decision.

Rule of Law Over World Is Goal Set by Justice Replacing Adlai Stevenson

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson named Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg today to be the new U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

In a quickly arranged ceremony in the White House rose garden, the President, with Goldberg at his side, named his choice to succeed the late Adlai E. Stevenson.

Goldberg said the message of Adlai Stevenson to the world must continue — man's ancient supplication to "grant us peace."

Rule of Law

And he promised to attempt to bring "the rule of law to relations between the various nations — it is that or doom and we all know that," Goldberg said.

The selection came as a distinct surprise. Speculation had centered on the idea of a Cabinet reshuffle.

Switch Possible

In that event, the informants said, Johnson might switch Secretary Robert S. McNamara from the Defense Department to the State Department, succeeding Rusk. There also has been some talk here that if the defense post became vacant, the assignment might go to either McGeorge Bundy, Johnson's assistant for international security affairs, or to Cyrus Vance.

U. S. Denies Charges of Aerial Spying

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department is investigating French charges of aerial espionage stemming from the flight of an American plane. It says "there was no intent to overfly any prohibited area in France."

Other than that, the Pentagon was keeping mum about the incident. France accused the United States Monday of photographing the site where enriched uranium is produced for its nuclear weapons.

The incident, the French Defense Ministry said, occurred Friday when a U.S. Air Force photo reconnaissance plane snapped 175 unauthorized photos, later surrendered on French demands.

PARIS (AP)—French newspapers showed only scant interest today in Defense Ministry charges that a U.S. plane took unauthorized aerial photographs of France's largest nuclear plant.

The Gaullist newspaper La Nation said the ministry believes the case is closed.

Gemini 5 Mission

Visibility Experiments For Next Astronauts

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A space veteran and a tattooed rookie astronaut will have to be eagle eyed on their Gemini 5 space mission next month.

Gordon Cooper, who has flown 34 hours in space, and Charles (Pete) Conrad outlined details of visibility experiments that will employ giant eye charts on the ground near Laredo, Tex., and at Carnarvon on the west coast of Australia. These will be viewed from 100 miles up.

The two spacemen talked to newsmen Monday about the eight-day flight, which the National Aeronautics and Space Administration set for Aug. 19.

A rendezvous with a small satellite, due to be kicked out of the capsule on the second of 121 orbits during 195 hours in space, likewise is on the program.

Another proposed test is a hookup for a two-way conversation with fellow astronaut Scott Carpenter, who will be in a diving bell beneath the Pacific Ocean off California.

The spacemen said some orbits will be over the United States at night and it may be possible to see the capsule streaking through the heavens. Previous flights all passed over this country during the day.

McNamara States Deterioration Is Seen in Viet Nam

Apparent Attempt on Life Of Maxwell Taylor Is Foiled

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said today the Vietnamese situation has deteriorated in many aspects in the last 15 months, but the picture is not all black. Then he headed home from his five-day survey to report to President Johnson.

McNamara said nothing in a news conference statement about expectations that this report will form the basis for a sizable increase in U.S. military strength in Viet Nam.

Assassination Attempted

An apparent attempt to assassinate U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, a savage battle at a garrison post near the Cambodian frontier and a second Viet Cong attack on the U.S. 1st Infantry Division's 2nd Brigade at Bien Hoa were among highlights of the day.

Four suspects, including two boys, were reported arrested after discovery and disarming of a Claymore bomb planted at the entrance of a stadium where Taylor and senior Vietnamese officials were attending a Unity Day celebration.

Returning to Washington with McNamara were Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Ambassador-designate Henry Cabot Lodge, who is to relieve Taylor in mid-August.

"The over-all situation continues to be serious," McNamara

Several Persons Missing Parts of Missouri Hit By Heavy Rain, Floods

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Roaring floodwaters created by rains of more than 12 inches over portions of northwest and west central Missouri swept through a number of small towns north and east of Kansas City today.

Several persons were reported lost or missing in the flood waters overnight in the Smithville and Holden areas. Homes were washed off their foundations at Smithville and Edgerton and at least two house trailers were washed away at Riverside.

The Clay County sheriffs office said rescue crews in boats were pulling stranded residents of the community of Mosby to safety from trees and rooftops.

Roads Inundated A number of roads throughout the area were under water and several bridges have been washed out.

Hardest hit were the valleys of the Little Platte and Fishing River, blanketed by massive thunderstorms that began Monday and continued through the night. The Weather Bureau said the rain is expected to continue intermittently through tonight.

The Clay County sheriff's office said a boat capsized with six persons along U.S. 69 in Smithville and only one person was known to have been rescued.

Boat Overturned The Missouri Highway Patrol said the occupants of a car caught in high water from Blackwater Creek near Holden were unaccounted for and at least two persons were missing.

Shakespeare Well Ahead Of Doctors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forsooth! Was William Shakespeare practicing medicine without a license?

Whether proof of that question is to be or not to be, a Washington doctor — focusing a professional eye on Shakespeare's plays — today came up with this diagnosis:

That the Bard of Avon had enough knowledge of medicine to rate hanging out his shingle as an Elizabethan M.D.

Verily, quoth Dr. Samuel M. Dodek, the great Shakespeare was years — nay, even centuries — ahead of the practicing medics in his seeming knowledge of some aspects of human physiology.

Take the great discovery of the circulation of the blood — generally credited to Sir William Harvey who first spoke of it in 1619.

In effect, Shakespeare scooped Harvey on this one by having one of his characters say in the first act of "Hamlet," written 16 years previously:

"... holds such an enmity with blood of man

"That swift as quicksilver it courses through

"The natural gates and alleys of the body..."

Scranton Not Interested In Presidency

But Some Say Every Move Aimed Toward Candidacy in 1966

By JACK LYNCH

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The year since the Republican National Convention at San Francisco appears to have made no outward change in the attitude of Gov. William W. Scranton toward the presidency.

Almost as soon as the tremors of his hectic and futile 32-day bid to head off Barry Goldwater had subsided, the Pennsylvania governor returned to his oft-stated position that he has no interest in becoming president.

He has said repeatedly he ran only to give Republican delegates a choice and because no one else in the party seemed willing to prevent a takeover by the conservatives.

He says he is interested only in finishing his term as governor of the third largest state. The term, limited by state constitution to one four-year span, ends in January 1967 and that could be politically convenient for the 1968 presidential race. After all, Scranton is 48, vigorous, handsome, and identified with the party's liberal wing.

Keeps Up Contact

Scranton maintains contact with prominent Republicans across the land, especially with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose Gettysburg farm is only 30 miles away.

State Democrats, at least, don't believe Scranton's disclaimers. They say everything Scranton does is done to further "presidential ambitions."

Combined with this is Scranton's ability to get things done despite Democratic control of the State House of Representatives. He recently outmaneuvered Democrats when they tried to raise his spending proposals by more than $31 million.

Pennsylvania, which has had financial problems for almost two decades, piled up a record $102.7-million surplus this year. That certainly doesn't hurt Scranton, whether the excess resulted from the general economic boom, as Democrats claim, or from a combination of good times and good administration, as Republicans aver.

Urban Interest

Legislatively, Scranton has developed considerable attention to urban areas, proposing a department of urban affairs and sharply increasing state aid for mass transit.

A hoped-for side effect of this is renewal of Republican strength in the Democratic-dominated big cities.

Scranton continues to make himself available for speeches. He speaks outside the state on an average of better than twice monthly.

At home, Scranton has lent considerable weight to party efforts through the Republican Coordinating Council. And although he campaigned for Goldwater last fall, he condemned efforts by Goldwater and others in setting up separate party organizations.

For himself, Scranton professes no plans beyond the last 18 months of his governorship, but it is difficult to rule him out as a presidential prospect.

Probation Terms Are Rejected by Defendants

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Probation terms that would prohibit participation in "sit-ins, walk-ins, stand-ins or lie-ins" for varying lengths of time have been rejected by 15 defendants in the University of California sit-in trials.

Another 17 of the 62 defendants sentenced Monday said they want time to think over the probation terms set down by Berkeley Municipal Judge Rupert Crittenden.

In the next two weeks Judge Crittenden is to sentence 591 more defendants arrested on charges of trespassing, resisting arrest, or both, in the Berkeley campus administration building sit-in the night of Dec. 2-3.

Most of the 62 who faced Crittenden Monday received fines of about $150, suspended jail sentences and probation.

The demonstrators occupied Sproul Hall to protest what they considered infringement on their right of free speech—in the form of political advocacy—by the university administration.

protection for civil rights workers under an injunction issued July 10 by U.S. Dist. Judge Herbert Christenberry in New Orleans.

In Jonesboro, another paper-mill town, upstate from Bogalusa, Police Chief Adrian Peevey quit the six-man department.

The Congress of Racial Equality has been pressing civil rights demands in the northwest Louisiana community. Negroes picketed a store Monday.

In neighboring Mississippi, Richard Holmes, 21, a Starkville Negro, enrolled at Mississippi State University without incident. He is the first member of his race to attend the school.

Injunction Sought

In New Orleans, Doar also asked for an injunction to halt Klansmen from "assaulting, threatening, harassing, interfering with or intimidating... any Negro in the exercise of his rights in Washington Parish."

His complaint named three Klansmen of the original Knights of the KKK and said the Disabled American Veterans Hall outside Bogalusa was the chief gathering place for the Klan.

Spiers and Knight pledged shortly after the suits were filed in federal court that the law would be upheld.

In Doar's complaint against the two officials, five affidavits were filed by civil rights workers alleging beatings and harassment.

Suits Filed

Doar filed other suits seeking to have three restaurants and a service station serve Negro patrons.

In a march Monday Ayt. Police Chief L. C. Terrell turned the group around when he told them state law prohibited demonstrations while city court was in session.

Earlier a Negro picket complained to police that an unidentified white man slugged him. He said the man disappeared in a store.

No. 2 man in the Defense Department.

In the absence of any word from Johnson, all these possibilities remain completely conjectural, and the key move — Rusk to the United Nations — appeared to run counter to a recent statement by Johnson declaring his complete confidence in Rusk as secretary of state.

Congressional informants said Monday Johnson might offer the U.N. post to Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and they thought Rusk might be receptive.

Some of the talk revolved around the idea of shifting Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to the State Department.

Goldberg was the late President Kennedy's first appointment to the Supreme Court. Before that he served in the Cabinet as secretary of labor, after a long career as a labor lawyer.

Other Names

Other names had flitted about in speculation on a successor to Stevenson, who died of a heart attack on a London street last Wednesday and was buried Monday in Bloomington, Ill.

Goldberg and his wife both traveled with the Johnsons to and from Stevenson's funeral.

Johnson said it was at his insistence that Goldberg had agreed to leave a lifetime job on the nation's highest court and step into the field of international diplomacy and negotiation.

Like Stevenson, Goldberg comes from Illinois. He is a native of Chicago.

Man of Courage

Johnson called Goldberg a man of courage, conviction and humanitarianism.

"Always," Johnson said, "we strive for a world where all men live in peace under a rule of justice under law. It is fitting that we should ask a member of the highest court to relinquish that position and speak for the United States before the United Nations."

The Goldberg announcement was preceded by another ceremony in the rose garden at which Johnson exchanged greetings with four of his ambassadors: to Dahomey, Niger, Sierra Leone and Togo. They were here on home leave and consultation.

Then the President went into his office. Two minutes later, out walked Rusk, Undersecretary of State George Ball, and the presidential assistant for national security affairs, McGeorge Bundy.

Goldberg then appeared out of the President's office. And that was the tipoff.

A week ago — The day before Stevenson died — Johnson was asked in a news conference whether he foresaw a change in the top position at the State Department.

Dedicated Man

"None whatever," he said. Johnson went on to call Rusk "one of the most able and most competent and most dedicated men I have ever known." The President added "he sits to my right in the Cabinet room. He ranks first in the Cabinet, and ranks first with me."

When the congressional speculation was reported Monday, Rusk was in New York participating in a memorial ceremony for Stevenson at the United Nations. The speculation was relayed to him by an aide. Rusk noted an implication that he had discussed the change with Johnson and was receptive to it. His reported comment was: "I have held no such discussion."

Some administration officials dismissed the speculation as "nonsense."

Quick Decision

The expectation in official quarters is that Johnson will decide on a new U.N. ambassador within a few days.

The U.N. job is the top ambassadorship. The man who holds it has for many years had Cabinet status in the American government. Like all ambassadors, he is the personal representative of the President but is subject to policy instructions and directives from the secretary of state. The position of secretary of state outranks all others in the administration under the President.

Rhee Services Slated Sunday

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) — Funeral services will be held here Wednesday for former South Korean President Syngman Rhee, after which his body will be flown to his homeland for a "people's funeral."

The South Korean government decided today to honor the "Tiger of Korea" with the funeral, a ceremony ranking second only to a state funeral.

The cabinet decision recognizes Rhee's devotion to Korean independence and his "brilliant struggle against communism," said Hong Chong-chul, Korean information minister.

The services Wednesday will be in a small Honolulu church Rhee helped found 47 years ago.

Enemy Operations

He cited increased Viet Cong concentrations, the rate and intensity of enemy operations, the disruption of communications throughout the country and an intensification of terrorist activity.

"But the situation is not all black," said the Secretary. The Vietnamese people are continuing to fight, he went on, the Viet Cong are suffering increasing losses, and U.S. combat forces have "added substantial

On the battlefield, an outnumbered Vietnamese special forces garrison fought off a powerful Viet Cong attack in a "valiant stand" early today but suffered "an awful lot of casualties," a U.S. spokesman reported. He said Americans were among the dead.

Six Advisers

Six U.S. special forces advisers and 200 Vietnamese made up the garrison, at Bu Dop, due north of Saigon and five miles from the Cambodian border.

The Viet Cong repeatedly assaulted the camp, the spokesman said, but did not penetrate far into it.

The biggest assault, he said, was launched at 8:30 a.m. the spokesman said. The Viet Cong hit the north wall of the camp, swarming across a moat and through a mine field.

The attack was repelled by a

Atlanta Officials Not Qualified as Art Critics

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Vice Mayor Sam Massell Jr. believes Atlantans are becoming more conscious of beauty but that "many good public officials with the best of intentions do not feel adequate as art critics."

He proposed a citizens art advisory board to bridge the gap and help in beautifying the city.

The Viet Cong also hit the 1st Division's 2nd Brigade near Bien Hoa early today with mortar and small arms fire for the second day in a row. U.S. casualties were described as light. Three Americans were killed by a Viet Cong attack on the unit Monday.

top limit said that under the present circumstances it was unrealistic. The vote for the proposal was 8-4, with Sen. Frank Panzer, R-Brownsville, and Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi, R-Minocqua, joining six Democrats in approving it.

The proposed ceiling would provide enough revenue to close the $87 million gap created by an $87.8 million budget, but force the rejection of practically all other spending programs.

The committee, which started the new round of compromise talks last week, skirted any discussion of specific taxes that could resolve the state's financial deadlock.

Republicans Say Johnson Ordered Bill to be Rushed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $60 million higher-education bill was rammed through a House committee in 20 minutes under White House orders, Republican members of the committee say.

The rush action was taken, they hinted in a minority report, so President Johnson could point to the accomplishment in a speech that night at a $100-a-plate Democratic dinner.

The bill in question, which would provide a broad new program of aid for colleges, including grants for needy students, was approved 21-2 by the education and labor committee June 24. The vote was taken at a hastily called meeting, late in the afternoon, with only four of the committee's 10 Republicans present. Two voted for the bill.

The other eight Republican members noted that Johnson, in his speech that night, listed the reporting of the bill by the committee at the top of nine congressional accomplishments that day.

At the time the vote was taken, the bill had been stalled more than a month. It now awaits clearance by the rules committee.

Intimates Say LBJ Optimistic On Viet Nam

Ends Long Period of Official Indecision

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Despite pessimistic appraisals of the course of the war in Viet Nam, intimates of President Johnson confide that he is more optimistic today about eventual success than at any time since the election.

The apparent reason: The President's determination to enter stage two of the careful escalation of the war has cleared the air and ended a long period of agonizing indecision.

This is true despite clear signs that Ambassador Averell Harriman's mission to Moscow seems to have broken little if any new ground. It is true, too, despite the fact that Soviet Ambassador Dobrynin spread a layer of gloom and doom in a series of private talks with leading U. S. officials and politicians before leaving Washington for a long vacation in Russia on July 8. ("A depressing conversation," said one participant.)

Stage one in the strategy of escalation was the decision to bomb north of the 17th parallel last February. Stage two is the build-up of U.S. fighting men to an initial target (as we forecast last April) of well over 100,000 men.

Original Purpose

To understand the full meaning of stage two it is necessary to recall the original purpose of President Kennedy, concurred in by President Johnson, of the first dispatch of U.S. troops to Viet Nam. They were sent there not to fight but to "advise," train and build up the army of South Viet Nam.

Accordingly, in their top-secret memorandum to President Kennedy in October, 1963, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell Taylor predicted that this training mission would be completed by the end of 1965, at which point the U. S. advisers could be withdrawn.

This assessment was based on the theory that the proper role of a friendly power helping the victim of a so-called war of liberation was the role of adviser and trainer, not active fighter.

But within a few short months, heavy infiltration of highly-trained troops across the border from North Viet Nam began in ever increasing numbers, wholly upsetting the balance of guerrilla forces versus the South Vietnamese Army. The forecast of October, 1963, turned out, unpredictable, to be based on a condition that did not persist. Instead, it became apparent throughout 1964 and early this year that the primary mission of the U.S. would have to be transformed from teacher to active, front-line participant—a dangerous but essential transformation if the U.S. was not to renege on its pledge not to let the aggression from the north succeed.

No Illusions

The President's new mood clearly arises from his having bitten the bullet of stage two in the escalation of the war in Viet Nam. And despite every effort to press for negotiations, the President has no illusions that negotiations are anywhere in sight.

Thus, in confidential talks with leading U.S. officials here, Ambassador Dobrynin emphasized his government would not lift a finger to help arrange a settlement until several conditions were met, including termination of all U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam. He warned that if the war should lead to a confrontation between the U.S. and Red China, the Soviet Union would join China notwithstanding their vicious ideological split. He claimed the political support of the Soviet people for the increasing Soviet assistance to North Viet Nam, on grounds (as he put it) to one high U.S. official) that the Russian people remember all too vividly what it was like to be bombed and to be forced to conduct guerrilla warfare in World War II.

It was not accidental that Dobrynin made the rounds with this message just before sailing for home on July 8. His purpose was quite obvious: To frighten the U.S. away from escalating the war to stage two.

But even more obvious is the President's response. Having made the crucial decision to commit U.S. forces as front-line fighters to repel what is rapidly becoming an overt aggression from the north, the President is in no mood to be frightened.

Winnebago Board Reapportionment Hearing Aug. 17

County Supervisor Districts Would be Cut From 52 to 47

OSHKOSH — Public hearing on the reapportionment of Winnebago County Board supervisor districts was set this morning for 10 a.m. Aug. 17.

The board accepted the proposed redistricting which would cut the county board membership from 52 to 47 members.

The Towns of Menasha and Oshkosh were advised to come up with a possible division of those towns into two geographical districts since both are allowed two members on the board. Supv. Roland Kampe, Town of Menasha, said he would discuss this with his town board Monday night.

Supv. Gordon Hanson, Town of Winchester, maintained the towns were losing their rights and this reapportionment was taking away grass roots government.

"We cannot swallow this without regret. It is unfair but there is nothing we can do about it," Hanson stressed.

Supv. E. G. Steinhilber, Oshkosh, said the reapportionment committee in preparing the districts tried to keep each district as close to 2,300 persons as possible and within a 10 per cent variance. The same problems which confront the Towns of Menasha and Oshkosh about electing two supervisors at large has come up in other parts of the state.

Supv. Herbert Pitz, Oshkosh, added the city governments had done their own districting for their cities and commended the city officials for their assistance.

260 Graduate From WSU-O at Aug. 5 Rites

700 Degrees Given by Institution For Calendar Year

Some 260 persons will be added to the rapidly growing stream of Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh graduates at the University's annual summer commencement, Aug. 5, according to the institution's academic officials.

The summer crop of graduates will bring to more than 700 the number to receive degrees during the current calendar year from WSU-O, the state's fastest growing and largest state university.

Graduates on Aug. 5 will hear an address by Dr. B. J. Chandler, dean at Northwestern University school of education. The ceremonies will be at 6 p.m. at the Jackson Street Athletic field. The "bad weather" alternate location is the University's Albee Hall.

Another feature of the commencement will be the awarding of degrees to the University's first class from the recently organized Graduate School.

Others participating in the ceremonies, in addition to Dr. Chandler, are Rabbi Myer Schwartz, B'nai Israel Temple in Oshkosh; Dr. Roger E. Guiles, WSU-O president; deans Everett G. Fyle, David L. Bowman and Sherman E. Gunderson of the WSU-O Graduate School, School of Education and School of Letters and Science respectively, and Dr. Harold B. Porter of the WSU-O Music Department.

The rapidly growing number of graduates coming from WSU-O is a reflection of booming enrollment at the University. The 5,375 students registered last fall (1964) is expected to grow to some 7,000 this September. The increased numbers reflect not only a growth in volume of high school graduates in the area, but a rapidly expanding drawing area for the institution, University officials said.

Neenah Would Lose 2

The proposed reapportionment would keep Menasha's supervisors at six, would cut Neenah's representation from 10 to eight supervisors, would increase Oshkosh's membership from 16 to 20 and would drop the City of Omro from three to one supervisor.

The 16 townships and the Village of Winneconne would be cut from 17 supervisors to 12 representatives on the board.

12 Diseased Elm Trees Suspected

Appleton Has a Dozen Cases of Suspected Dutch Elm Disease

Appleton has a dozen cases of suspected Dutch Elm disease, Forester Roger Rindt disclosed today.

Rindt said he diagnosed the damaged elm trees as having been struck by the disease but is awaiting positive confirmation from the state.

Bark samples have been sent in to the state department of agriculture at Madison for an official analysis.

"The trees we believe to be diseased are in a widely scattered area," Rindt said. He said the situation was not serious.

However, he indicated that continuous inspections are being made and other suspected cases may show up.

"There is no concentrated outbreak—the trees are located in various parts of the city," Rindt said.

The diseased trees will have to be cut down and disposed of, he advised.

Nature of their injuries was not disclosed and all were taken to St. Vincent Hospital in Green Bay.

Outagamie County police said the accident occurred when a car being driven by Frank Danforth, no age, route 1, Oneida, struck a parked car on County Trunk E, which in turn struck a second parked car.

One of the cars was pushed into the highway and the path of the Biese car, police said.

Court Order Halts Projects at Schneider Recreation Farm

State Objects to Development Next to Lower High Cliff Park

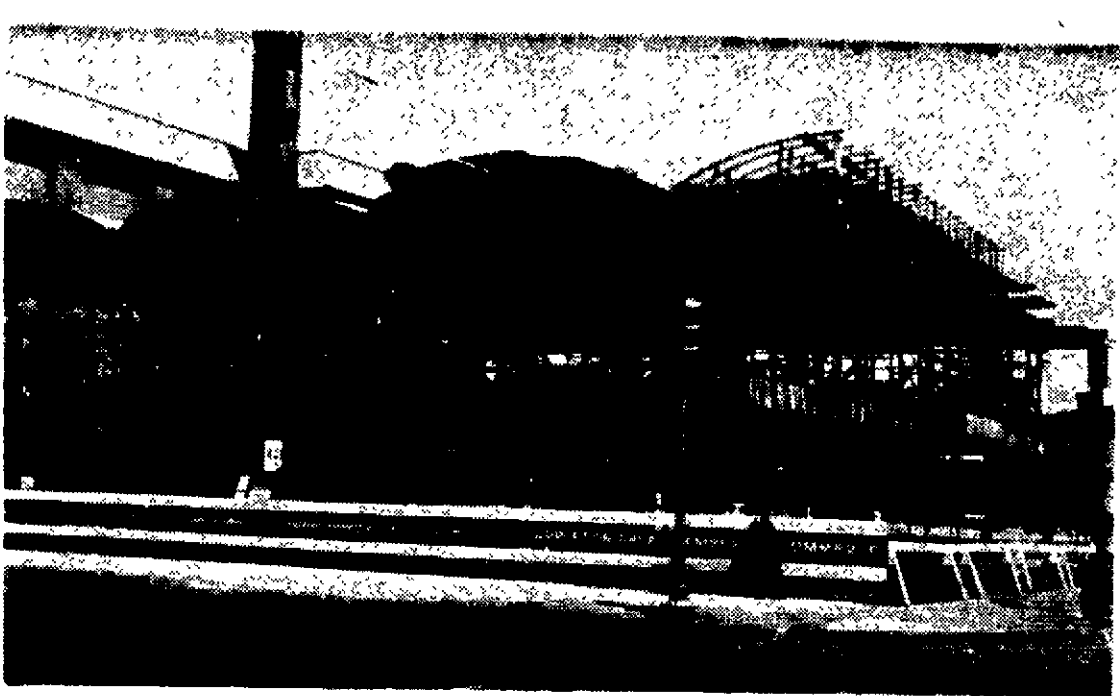

SHERWOOD—Work on a proposed golf shop and miniature railroad depot at the Frank Schneider farm at High Cliff State Park near here has been halted by court action.

Calumet County Authorities served a writ of certiorari and a stay of construction to stop the construction which was areas zoned for agriculture at, given the go ahead when the initial building permits were issued June 18. The writ was issued upon a request by the state attorney general's office and before several persons appeared County Judge D.H. Seborra declared the stay of construction pending the inspection of the minutes of the board of appeals meeting at which the permits were issued.

Schneider and Robert Piedot, both of route 1, Menasha, have been trying since April to get building permits to start construction on a miniature golf course and railroad on Schneider's farm, immediately to the north and west of High Cliff Park.

Making Plans for Industrial Aviation Aids Communities

Success Stories Result for Dozens of Cities in Nation

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

What industrial aviation does mean and what an airport industrial park can mean to a group of communities such as the Fox Cities can be demonstrated by looking at success stories in dozens of cities throughout the United States.

These cities are the ones who nothing more than six or seven acres of ground.

Today the airplane opens up every part of the world to economic progress and it promises to attract new business to provide increased payroll, greater community tax benefits and scores of other advantages.

The people of Hartford, Conn., know what an air industrial park means in terms of economic advantages.

Single Advertisement

The community made nearly half the land near Brainard Field available for industrial development. A single advertisement was placed in the Wall Street Journal by the industrial park developers and it brought responses from ten industrial groups interested in developing plants where they could have good transportation facilities.

Today there are eight industries located on the land which had been sitting idle before the industrial park development began, including Mercer and Dunbar, Capitol Ventilating Co., Weyerhaeuser Co., International Harvester and Railway Express.

Each plant and business at the air industrial park meant more jobs, more taxes and more benefits to the community in retail sales.

Prime Consideration

Consistently, airports show up as one of the top five considerations in requirements for plant or office location. A recent study by the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development of the State of Missouri shows that, among the 500 largest corporations in America, 39 1/2 per cent required an airport near their plant locations.

Study after study seems to hold up these figures. A recent survey of Chambers of Commerce throughout the country resulted in 40 per cent of the Chamber units indicating that companies considering communities as a site for locating plants required close-by, adequate aviation facilities as a prerequisite for locating.

Conservation Men To Tour Outagamie

Black Creek, Seymour to be Stops For Supervisors From 10 Counties

District soil and water conservation district supervisors from 10 counties have indicated they will attend Wednesday's tour of Outagamie County projects.

Vernon Geiger, Outagamie soil conservationist, will conduct the tour. Conservation wardens, game management officials and county agents also are expected to attend.

The tour will start at 9:30 a.m. at the Black Creek village park, the site of the community's artificial lake which the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) engineered. This is its second year of operation.

Seymour Projects

A similar facility is nearing completion at Seymour, second stop of the tour. The 2.7 acre lake will include parking and bathhouse facilities when completed. Cost is expected to reach $25,500. The county SCS also provided engineering assistance for it.

The tour will stop next at a Seymour recreation facility, the Crystal Springs Golf course. Construction is expected to start this month, pending approval of plans by the State Farmers Home Administration (FHA) office.

The land is still being farmed but a small lake was completed last year before it became a community project. FHA Loan funds have been approved in Washington.

Other Stops

Other points of interest on the tentative itinerary include the Tickler Farms north of Shiocton, the K & S Game Club owned by Don Killoren and the black slough owned by Dale and Harold Van Straten, northwest of Shiocton.

A noon business luncheon is scheduled at the Shiocton American Legion Hall.

Request New Policy On Street Repairs

Seek Priority Designation By Public Works Department, Not by Appleton Aldermen

A new policy for maintaining and improving Appleton's 180 miles of streets was advocated Monday by a southwest side alderman.

Ald. John Mac Donald (7th) told the city's street-sanitation committee he felt street repair and construction should be designated by the department of public works—not each of the city's 20 aldermen.

MacDonald's proposal met with favor from Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), committee chairman. However, Pointer recalled the same policy was introduced and soundly defeated by the Appleton Council about seven or eight years ago.

Inventory Underway

Pointer reminded the city engineering department is in the process of preparing an inventory of municipal streets, including a report on the condition of each.

MacDonald said he hoped the survey would be expedited. "It is obvious that aldermen are hesitant to order street improvements because they don't want to anger voters who will have to pay the special assessments," MacDonald commented.

He noted that questionnaires were sent out to aldermen asking them which streets in their ward they wanted included in a resurfacing program, and that only three replies were received.

Streets Need Work

"We know there are many streets in need of repair in Appleton and the mayor has proposed a city-wide program to remedy the situation," MacDonald commented.

Ald. Paul Klemmer (11th) felt the city's professional personnel were in a better position to give streets priority. "It's really hard for an alderman to determine what street is bad," Klemmer said.

Pointer said Appleton is doing more than its share of street construction, citing that $250,000 worth of projects were added to the schedule since the 1965 budget was prepared.

"If repairing and replacing streets were an engineering decision, special assessments could be justified and the overall program would work better than it does now," Pointer observed.

Mitchell to Pick Finance Director From Men With Top Total Scores

Oral interviews of 10 top applicants seeking the Appleton finance director job have been completed, the council's finance committee was informed Monday night.

Among those chosen by Mayor Clarence Mitchell to conduct oral examinations were three Appleton accountants. The applicants previously wrote examinations under the supervision of the State Bureau of Personnel.

Oral and written exam scores will be combined to give the applicants their final ratings. The mayor will then make the appointment from the list of the top-ranked.

Fill Job by Sept. 1

The finance committee was hopeful a new director, replacing the resigned Donald E. Hassler, would be on the job by Sept. 1. The salary range is $10,000 to $11,000.

Previously, the No. 1 choice for the job declined to accept the position, making it necessary for the city to readvertise for applicants.

None of the applicants are from Appleton or the other Fox Cities Communities.

Participating in the finance committee meeting was a member of the finance department staff and a representative of the local auditing firm that has assigned an accountant to oversee finance office operations until a new director takes over.

175-Gun Salute Fires Off Celebration in Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — The city's 175th jubilee celebration began at noon today with a 175-gun salute, a tolling of church bells and the wailing of sirens.

The Gold Bond Show's carnival was being assembled during the morning as workers hurried to have the rides ready by evening.

Onlookers from age five to 75 gathered around various trucks to watch the men unload the equipment and assemble it.

Evening's Events

The first event of the evening will be the final session of the Kangaroo Court at 9 p.m. near the main carnival area, which is the high school parking lot.

The celebration's first stage show will start immediately after the Kangaroo Court. Featured in the show will be the Dudes, the Stebbings and Scott's Dogs, Chick, Mauthe, Maggie and Scotty.

The week-long celebration will run through Sunday afternoon, when it will be concluded with a time capsule burying ceremony at the Grignon Home.

Five of the local reserves, all seaman apprentices, have been assigned to the Ninth Naval District's new ashore-afloat school at Great Lakes, Ill. After a week of in-port training in fire fighting, gunnery and small boat handling, the five will board a patrol craft for training on Lake Michigan.

Attending the school are seaman apprentices Gary L. Kluge, Hortonville; David T. Piepkorn, Little Chute; and Stanley E. Drumm, Edward W. Nass Jr., and Bruce A. Fuhrmann, all of Appleton.

Two seaman recruits from Appleton, Steven J. Eichenger and Paul Schulz, begin four weeks of training Sunday, two weeks at the Recruit Training Center at Great Lakes followed by two weeks at the ashore-afloat school.

Glenn W. Thompson (13th) said in a joint statement that they intend to start ordering sidewalk construction.

The aldermen, in whose wards there has been a considerable amount of public and parochial school construction, said they made tours and discovered in some areas that were built up more than 60 per cent, sidewalks were still lacking.

"When it rains the people, including small children, have to walk through mud fields or in the street," Thompson said.

"And, in the winter the situation is worse and the safety hazards compounded," Ebben declared.

Calumet Street Calumet Street divides the two wards, a portion of the 9th Ward formerly being in the Town of Harrison in Calumet County before being annexed.

Thompson and Ebben, serving their first terms on the council, said within a few months they hoped to have a list of sidewalks to be ordered in.

They indicated this did not preclude residents of their wards to contact them, or to proceed with obtaining a permit and having sidewalks constructed now.

Other aldermen in recent months have been ordering sidewalks in wards where residential areas have sprung up.

Okay Projects at High Cliff Park

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

M A DISON—Additional improvements in conjunction with the recently authorized construction of a shelter building at High Cliff State Park in Calumet County have been approved by the State Conservation Department, including $44,500 for additional sewer, water and electrical system facilities.

The commission has also approved a contract with the Messner, Inc., of Madison for food dispensing equipment at the new shelter building and concession at a price of $13,983.

Menasha Alderman to Seek Referendum on Racine Street Sale

MENASHA — Menasha Ald. William Erickson told the Common Council Monday night he will request a referendum on the fate of the Racine Street playground property.

The notice was part of a 16 point statement issued by Erickson following an apparent collapse for commercial development by Mayor John Klein that a council decision on how to use the playground property is "overdue."

In addition to hearing Erickson's statement, aldermen also were told they never had officially referred the site's future to the city planning commission for a recommendation. The common council, which met as a committee-of-the-whole Monday, is expected to make the referral tonight, with instructions that the commission make a recommendation by the following council meeting.

Campaign Group Forms Support for Local Fund Drives

NEW YORK — John R. Kimberly, president and chairman of the Board of the Kimberly-Clark Corporation of Neenah, has been appointed a member of the National Citizens' Committee of United America. The announcement was made by Walter H. Wheeler, Jr., chairman of the board, Pitney-Bowes, Inc., and national volunteer chairman of UCCA.

United Community Campaigns of America is the name given to the national support program for the annual local United Fund and Community Chest campaigns throughout the country, of which the Community Chest of Neenah-Menasha is part.

Its mission is the mobilization of all the nation's leadership resources in business, labor, government, education, communications and the professions that can effectively reinforce the efforts of United Way appeals in 2,225 communities.

These local united campaigns raised over $580-million last year for the support of 34,500 health and welfare agencies which annually help more than 25 million families.

The previous report for Neenah, made last week, listed 14 cases of the disease, none of them in areas which had been sprayed by the city.

Exact locations of the 20 new Neenah cases could not be learned this morning.

High Official Of Nationalist China Defects

TOKYO (AP)—Li Tsung-jen, Nationalist China's vice president for six years and its acting president for one, threw in his lot with the Chinese Communists today. He fired a parting blast at the United States which had sheltered him since 1949.

The New China News Agency said Li and his wife arrived by special plane at Peking Airport. They were greeted by Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and a delegation of 100 high Communist officials.

The 74-year-old former soldier-statesman was the most important Chinese to go over to the Reds since the Communists drove Chiang Kai-shek from the mainland 16 years ago.

Exotic Paper Forms Page of K-C Report

Cigarette Wrapping Sweetened for Sale In South America

NEENAH — Bound into the 36-page annual report going to 26,000 Kimberly-Clark stockholders this week is a sample sheet of an exotic cigarette paper.

Produced by the company's Peter J. Schweitzer Division, the paper is impregnated with a saccharin-like sweetening agent.

The paper, called Pectoral Sumatra, is used by tobacco companies as a wrapping for cigarette brands marketed in Central and South America where sweet-tasting cigarettes have been popular for several decades according to a company spokesman.

The sample sheet is the introductory page to a word and picture report on the activities of the Schweitzer division which is not only the nation's largest cigarette paper producer but is also a recognized world leader

Committee Approves Coleman Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee approved, 11-2, today President Johnson's nomination of former Mississippi Gov. James P. Coleman to be a judge of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Coleman's appointment, under heavy attack from some civil rights groups because of his segregationist record, was unanimously approved by a three-member subcommittee last week after two days of hearings. The nomination now goes to the full Senate for a vote at a later date.

in the manufacture of thin papers.

These papers serve a variety of demanding uses ranging from condenser papers for missile electronic systems to tea bags and from carbon papers to Bible papers.

Most of the papers are extremely thin. It would take 18 sheets of the sweet-tasting cigarette paper to equal the weight of the newsprint page you are now holding. But this is one of the heavier products in the Schweitzer catalog which includes papers less than 2-10,000ths of an inch thick.

Treasury to Destroy Edition of New Coins

BY SYLVIA PORTER

When the news finally broke last month that the U.S. soon will be minting new, non-silver copper-nickel "sandwich" coins in place of our familiar silver dimes and quarters, I immediately asked a top Treasury official for samples of the new coins.

My request was politely but flatly turned down. Each of the "limited edition" of about 100,000 coins produced by the Philadelphia Mint is worth nearly $15,000 to collectors and all are securely locked up. None will ever be distributed — or displayed at the Smithsonian Institution — for, under present plans every one is to be melted down.

The reason? Our anti-counter-

Porter

feiting laws forbid the circulation of any coin made of any material other than the silver coins authorized by present law—and this ban goes for the U. S. Treasury too. Also to keep within today's strict coinage laws, the experimental coins bear on one side a picture of Martha Washington, her name, the simple notation "Virginia" and the date "1759." On the other side is an engraving of Mr. Vernon and the inscription "Home of the Washington Family."

Some Engravings

Of course, the new silverless coins which will actually be placed into circulation will bear exactly the same engraving and inscriptions as the ones in your pocket now: Franklin D. Roosevelt on the dime, George Washington on the quarter, John F. Kennedy on the half-dollar. They will be the same size and, except for a reddish edge, about the same color. They will be 7 per cent lighter—although informal blindfold tests made by the Treasury indicate most of us won't detect the slight difference in weight.

In addition to the copper-nickel "Martha Washington" coins, the Treasury produced more than a dozen other "illegal" editions—using pure nickel, aluminum, columbium, stainless steel, various silver-copper combinations. These also are to be destroyed.

None of the non-silver coins except the copper-nickel sandwich met the fundamental requirement that the new coins work in today's vending machines, pay telephones, toll booths, laundrettes, etc.

What's the timetable for producing and circulating the new coins? When will you see the first silverless ones?

Orders for the new coinage materials are now being placed by the Treasury. Production of the new quarters probably will begin in August—side by side with production of the old silver quarters. When a supply of 600 million new quarters is accumulated, the coins will be distributed to banks throughout the country. The first silverless quarters well may be in circulation by this December, and then minting of the old silver quarters will cease.

The new silverless dimes won't begin to circulate until June or July 1966, when the mints will be in full production of the new coins. Plans also have been made for further production of new 50 cent pieces next year; 250 million silver Kennedy half-dollars minted in the past year and a half have simply disappeared into the hands of collectors and hoarders and the Treasury is eager to put new supplies of this denomination into circulation. An estimated 3.5 billion new

Mrs. Webb Switches On-Again, Off-Again Marriage Off, Again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The way was open today for a final decree to end the marriage between actor-producer Jack Webb and Jacqueline Loughery, Miss U.S.A. in the 1953 Miss Universe contest.

before she was to have received the final decree she sought — Miss Loughery filed suit to set aside the property settlement, alleging she signed it under emotional stress. Monday she dropped the suit, saying her allegation of "fraud, duress and undue influence was not correct." The settlement provides for $99,000 of alimony in five years, plus a $35,000 share of community property.

Court Order Halts Work on Farm Projects

D. H. Seborna had a chance to review the minutes of the board of appeals' meeting during which the permits were issued was filed last week by William H. Wilker, assistant Wisconsin attorney general.

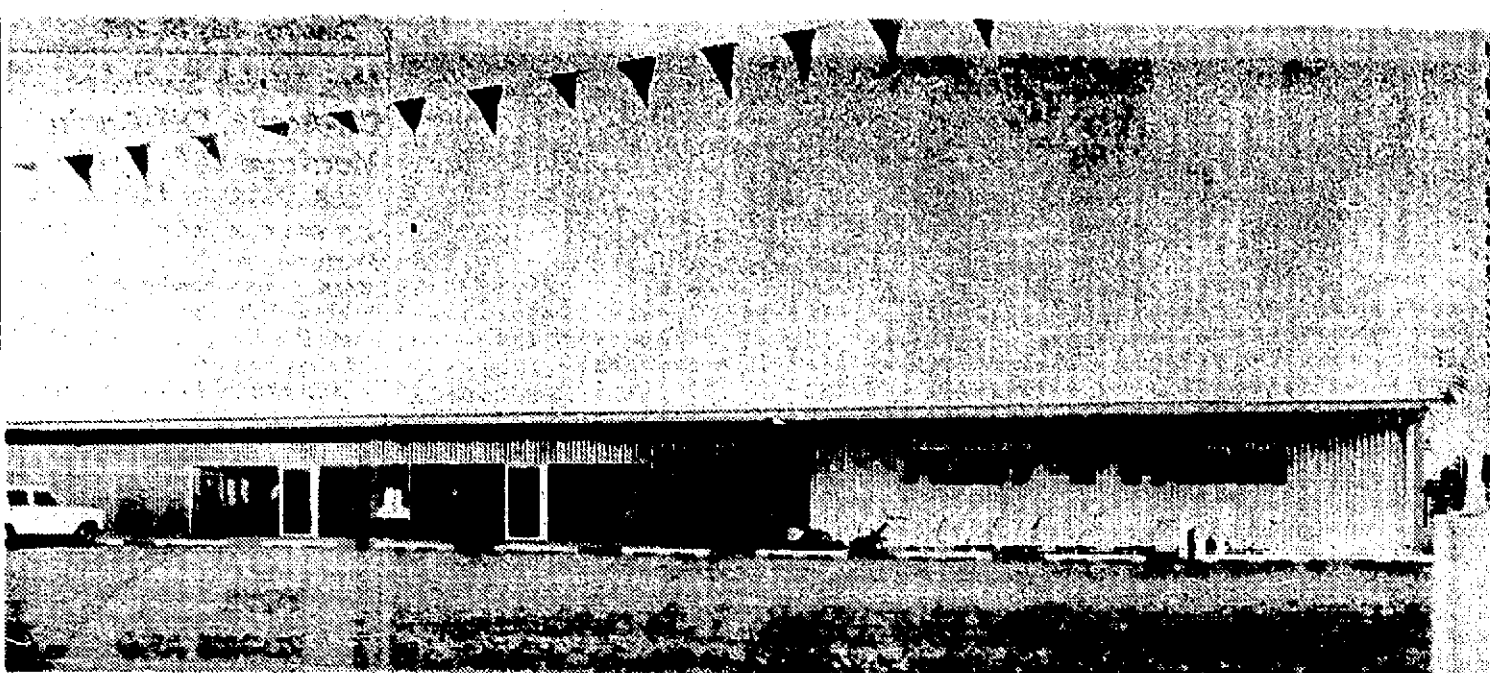

Claimed 'Arbitrary'

The request, filed by the state, claimed the action of the board of appeals was "arbitrary, erroneous, unlawful, representing the will, not the judgment (of the board) prejudicial and damaging to the state of Wisconsin," according to Engler.

Before construction can be resumed the County Court will have to inspect the minutes of the meeting.

In a recently released Calumet County brochure, a map of High Cliff State Park was shown to include the entire 350-acre Schneider farm, including a parking lot at the location where his house now stands, and various picnic and parking areas on the Schneider property.

At present Schneider has sunk

Grand Opening Celebration of the Fleet and Farm Store, 3215 W. Wisconsin Ave., will be held Thursday through Saturday with a dedication program Thursday night. Participants in the 8 p.m. program for the 18,000 square foot store will include Appleton Mayor Clarence Mitchell and Thomas Thorson, Grand Chute town chairman, with Robert Lloyd, Appleton radio announcer, as master of ceremonies. There will be log cutting opening ceremonies and other attractions. (Post-Crescent Photo)

More than $100,000 into his recreational area which includes trout ponds, wildlife preserves, wooded saddle trails and other recreational facilities, Engler said.

When confronted by this map, Franzen at the June 18 meeting told Engler, "The state has no argument with this map." Franzen was representing the state at this meeting.

Engler explained that before the state can condemn land for park purposes a public necessity must be shown. This need is comparatively easy to show in condemning land for highways, but for park purposes it can be a little more difficult, Engler said.

Stock Market Drops Lower

Defense-Related Issues Respond To Spending News

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market headed irregularly lower early this afternoon despite strength in aerospace defense stocks and some electronics.

The defense-related issues continued to respond to prospects for greater defense spending because of the increasing emphasis on Viet Nam.

The market was mixed and dull at the start. Defense issues moved ahead and were followed later by the electronics.

Autos, oils, tobaccos and electrical equipments were among losers. Losses in these groups

Survey Shows

Camps Lacking Good Program for Land Use

Lack of good land use practices in youth camps operating in the eight-county area of the Wolf River basin was revealed today by the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission. "Many camps have no long-range plan for soil, trees and water and far too much emphasis is being placed on recreation for today alone," the report stated. "Many camp budgets include several new boats or other recreational items, but nothing toward equipment to prune a pine plantation or tools to thin a hardwood stand or even materials to be used to stop erosion from washing good topsoil into the lake."

Encouraging Note

On the encouraging side, the report noted most of the 26 camps which responded to the questionnaire were very interested in ways they could develop better land use techniques in their summer camp sessions.

The subcommittee on recreation of the forestry advisory committee developed the questionnaire which was sent to 37 camps in the Wolf River basin, including Boy and Girl Scouts, church camps, 4-H camps and other organizations. Purpose of the survey was to determine to what degree good land use is being practiced in the camps and what kind of programs are being used to train the leaders of tomorrow in proper land management plans.

Responses were received from 26 of the 27 camps surveyed. The recreation subcommittee met in Antigo earlier this month to tabulate questionnaire results and develop initial plans to help camp directors improve their land use program.

Plans now are being developed for a one-day land use workshop sometime during June of 1966 in the southern portion of the basin. Camp leaders will be encouraged to attend the workshop and exchange ideas of good land use to practice in their own camp programs.

"The youth today must be ready to face the future with the realization that much of our recreation in the future depends on how they use our land, water and forests today," the report concluded.

Date Set for County ASCS Committee Vote

OSHKOSH — Election of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service community committeemen in Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Waushara, Waupaca and Winnebago counties will be held by mail ballot this year, according to Henry Malchow, ASCS office manager.

Ballots will be mailed to eligible voters July 26. They must be postmarked or returned in person to the respective county officers by Aug. 9. Any eligible voter failing to receive a ballot may obtain one by calling, writing or personal contact at the county ASCS offices.

Ballots will be tabulated publicly at the county office Aug. 13. To be elected are three regular committee members and two alternates in each community. The chairman, vice chairman and regular member of the elected ASCS county committee also serve as delegates to the county convention where the ASCS county committee will be chosen. The county convention will be Aug. 18.

Generally, a farm owner, tenant or sharecropper may vote if he is taking part or is eligible to take part in one or more of the programs administered by the ASCS committees.

Judge Forgives Spree After Long, Long Wait

PITTSBURGH (AP) — James Campbell, 41, was arrested when he refused to stop blocking traffic and then gave police trouble before being removed. Campbell told a police magistrate Monday he had over-imbibed while celebrating the birth of his first child — a daughter — in 19 years of marriage.

The charges were dismissed.

Airplane Council of the Aerospace Industries Association of America, Inc., tells of another specific example.

Manchester, N. H., he said "at first did not recognize the importance of its airport to the future development of the area. Several years ago the Marina Electric Co. required a new plant and insisted upon an airport location.

"Not being able to use the Manchester Airport because of its occupancy by the Air Force, Marian Electric negotiated for property at Concord Airport, Concord, N.H.

"This," Spence said, "created a municipal crisis which culminated in the modification of the lease with the Air Force releasing about 40 acres to be sold by the city to Marina Electric.

Company Merged

"Later this company merged with Minneapolis-Honeywell. The former owner of Marian Electric felt so strongly about improving the economy of the area that he donated money and sparked the idea of an industrial air park.

"This," Spence said, "now consists of 98 acres, ideally situated between the runways. An additional 113 acres are available on the periphery of the field for industrial expansion.

"Today there are at least five industries located on the airport employing more than 800 people. Between 1961 and 1963, civilian employment doubled; the industrial payroll more than doubled; and tax income to the city jumped more than three times."

Other Examples

On the other side of the coin, there are just as many examples where the lack of airport facilities for industry has cost communities growth.

In one case affecting two towns in northwestern Virginia, privately-owned airports were purchased elsewhere by companies for the development of industrial plants. Officials of the two Virginia towns were unconcerned over the event until they learned that the companies would not proceed with plant development in their cities because they preferred locating where they had airport land.

Industrial air parks do benefit a total community—every citizen—not just the airport officials, airplane owners and industrialists. They create employment, boost payrolls, increase retail sales, add to tax revenues and generally improve the social existence of the entire community.

(Next: Outagamie County and the air industrial park plan.)

CNW Reports $3.8 Million Net Income for Half

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago and North Western Railway Co. and its subsidiaries reported today a net income of $3,807,424 for the first half of 1965, highest for any first six months in the last 20 years.

Net income for the same period in 1964 was $552,030.

Net income per common share was $1.74 in the first half of 1965 as compared with a deficit of $2.06 a share in the same period last year. As of June 30, there were 877,191 shares of common stock outstanding as compared with last year's 839,266.

Total revenues of the company for the first six months of 1965 were $111,822,472, an increase of $5,442,696.

A company spokesman said the improvement in revenues came principally from increased shipments of coal and coke, miscellaneous manufactured products, iron and steel articles, grain, automobiles and increased piggyback movements.

Menasha Garage Project Cost $5,235 Over Budgeted Figure

MENASHA — Remodeling and landscaping at the new city garage has cost $5,235 more than funds provided for the project.

Total cost of renovating barracks at the area and landscaping the grounds reached $6,904. Some $1,669 was originally set aside for the work, from surplus funds of last year.

The common council finance committee, at a special meeting Monday night, voted to transfer the $5,235 overdraft from the contingent fund.

Major cost of the project was $1,721 for nursery stock, which was planted by street department personnel at a labor cost of $1,906.

Some city officials had believed the landscaping would be done by park department crews, with labor costs taken from the park budget. Park Supt. Harry Kargus had ordered the shrubbery and planned the landscape. The common council had never budgeted funds for landscaping.

Other costs in the project included $1,414 for renovating the barracks, $200 for posts in the parking area, $1,413 for machinery rental and $247 for landscaper rental.

Paul T. Zenefski, route 1, Menasha, was taken to the hospital at 7:10 p.m. by Nancy R. Bromold, 514 Susan St., Kimberly, suffering from lacerations to his head, face, arms and leg.

His cycle received $50 damage in the mishap.

Height Governed by Hereditary Pattern

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son, who has just turned 18, is only 5 feet 5 inches tall. I have heard pros and cons about injections to increase height. One friend of 20 claims he is getting a series of seven injections to increase his height. He is 5 feet 7.

Should I pursue this further, or do you feel it is impossible to attain more than one's so-called normal height?—MRS. J.S.

Dr. Molner

body fuse and growth ceases.

Of course, growth can be influenced in childhood or youth; illness, and faulty nutrition can slow it up. However, even in severe cases, once a problem is corrected growth becomes more rapid, so the final height usually is not greatly affected. It is true that the individual's hormonal pattern plays a part, but it is one thing to correct an imbalance, and quite another to tinker with it just for the sake of trying to add height, and I do not recommend the procedure.

Sees No Prospect

(You might well watch and see what happens in the case of the 20-year-old who says he is getting injections; even if he really gets them, I can see no prospect that he will become taller.)

If your son grows no taller, he is still within the normal range for height. I dare say that you can help him the most by not mentioning it—don't discuss it, don't make comparisons, don't sympathize with him. Just encourage him to develop his talents in whatever direction they may lie.

For there to be an average, for every tall man there has to be a short one, and the world is full of famous short ones—Napoleon, and the scientist Charles Steinmetz, to name two who come to mind. But I don't suppose anybody said it better than Lincoln did—about how marvelous it is that every man's legs are just the right length to reach the ground.

Dear Dr. Molner: As some people fear death or cancer, I have a constant and tormenting fear of losing my mind. I wake up at night sometimes and fear my mind will go blank. Could you offer any word of advice as to how to overcome this?—MRS. J.D.L.

Short of being hit on the head and suffering amnesia (loss of memory) there is no way for your mind to "go blank." Even with amnesia, the mind keeps working; it just can't recall things in the past.

What you are afraid of is an impossibility. Or even taking the other meaning of "losing your mind," becoming mentally ill, that is really an emotional difficulty. The patient can think, talk, reason, and often appear (and in fact be) perfectly normal except when his particular emotional block intervenes—anxiety, guilt, or whatever.

Dear Dr. Molner: My youngest child has a navel which sticks way out. Our doctor dismissed the problem with "it's nothing, and will go away as the child gets older." Every one else I've talked to seems to think the way the doctor cut the cord might have had something to do with it.—MRS. L.H.

I'm sorry that people like you have to put up with such pointless scare stories. There is a standard procedure for severing the umbilical cord. As your doctor said, the navel rather often protrudes in babyhood but gradually becomes smaller.

Your friends, I'm afraid, probably have never cut a newborn baby's cord, and know nothing about it.

For facts about the total health of you and each member of your family, Dr. Joseph G. Molner's new book, "Stay Well Every Year of Your Life," ($5.95) is now available at your book store, or Prentice-Hall, Englewood Cliffs, N.J. (Copyright, 1965)

Public Service Employee Union Tells Objectives

Reduced Hours, 2 Year Contract Aim Of Highway Workers

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—Two-year contracts, a reduction of the hours of work in county highway departments, and premium compensation for overtime will be among the objectives of local public service employee unions as the season for renegotiation of working agreements begins.

reputed Robert Oberbeck, official of the Wisconsin State Council of Municipal Local Unions.

Oberbeck said that collective bargaining, especially in a new union, is time-consuming and expensive and that there is growing support for contracts of longer duration covering working conditions, pay and other terms.

He said also that the long-time goal of the eight-hour day and the 40-hour week has not yet been attained by many of the county highway department locals.

Premium Pay

Oberbeck listed after those objectives the acceptance of premium pay for overtime by public employee unit managers.

"Contrary to what is accepted as the common fact by the taxpayers, public employees in over 75 per cent of the highway department do not receive premium pay for overtime hours worked," he said.

Oberbeck said that the comparatively young public employee movement in the state remains primarily concerned with "bread and butter" phases of contract negotiations, but that other elements of contracts, including fringe benefits, recruitment and promotion policies and other aspects are getting increasing attention.

City Band Plays Tonight At Pierce Park

Appleton City Band, under the baton of F. P. Cornella, will give its third concert of the current summer season tonight at the Pierce Park bandshell. Concert time is 7:45 p.m.

The program includes 11 numbers, ranging from classical concert music to marches and show tunes.

One of the featured numbers will be "The Three Jets" by Chuck Bradford, for a trumpet trio starring Dennis Denets, Wayne Wirth and Tom Jacobs.

The colorful and lively "Ballet Parisienne" by Jacques Offenbach is on the program, as is Robert Hawkins' "How the West Was Won" and "Hello Dolly" by Jerry Herman from the Broadway musical.

Band selections always popular with listeners because of their excellent musical novelty include Dan Emmett's "Fantasia on Dixie" and Leroy Anderson's "Syncopated Clock." The marches listed are Sousa's "Fairness of the Fair," Louis Stine's "Walking Fingers March" and "Scepter of Liberty March" by Olivadotti.

Other concert numbers are "Concert Suite" by Fredric Ashe and a pastoral overture by Mozart.

Luci to Return To Milwaukee - Without Disguise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Luci Baines Johnson will return to Milwaukee without a disguise. The White House announced Monday the 18-year-old daughter of President and Mrs. Johnson will open the Milwaukee County 4-H Junior Fair July 28. She will return to Washington later the same day.

In Milwaukee, 4-H leaders said Luci would participate in a ribbon-cutting ceremony, attend a noon luncheon, and visit various displays.

Luci, wearing at least two wigs to hide from the public, attended the Marquette University prom and graduation ceremonies incognito with friends the first weekend in June.

Little Chute Man to Pilot Planes for United Air Lines

A Little Chute man recently was graduated from the United Air Lines pilot training school in Denver and has been assigned as second officer flying out of O'Hare International Airport, Chicago.

John Coenen, 1009 N. Madison St., after learning to fly in 1955 in Appleton, completed the 13-week training course which included five weeks of classroom work on four-engine aircraft, 10 day instruction in other aircraft, and sessions in a DC-6 simulator which re-creates every detail of actual flight.

Coenen finished the course with an eight-week period of second officer training to prepare him for the current assignment.

The flight training center from which Coenen graduated employs some 360 staff members who annually train, check and re-check 3,600 flight crew members. This year about 540 new pilots will be trained for the airline plus an additional 1,000 pilots who will be moving up to different aircraft.

Auto Death Raises State Toll to 494

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One fatality Monday, after one of the deadliest weekends this year, raised Wisconsin's 1965 traffic toll to 494, compared with 566 on the same date last year.

Norbert X. Ballweg, 58, Sauk City, died Monday in the collision of his pickup truck and a car at a rural crossroads near Sauk City in northwestern Dane County.

Weekend accidents took 15 lives, including those of John F. Nemitz, 18, and Doris D. Parkinson, 12, both of Rural Kewaunee, who died Sunday in the collision of a station wagon and a motorcycle they were riding on a road six miles west of Kewaunee.

Experimental Grain Plots To be Viewed

A grain plot twilight meeting for Outagamie County area farmers will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Lester Krahn farm, three miles south of Seymour on County Trunk C. County Agent Russell Luckow will be in charge of the demonstration. Leon Wraga, University of Wisconsin extension agronomist, will discuss the various grain varieties.

There will be 12 oat, four wheat and three barley varieties growing on the plot for inspection.

Included in the discussion will be maturity, disease resistance, straw strength and height, yield, kernel size, and bushel weight. In addition, other experimental varieties are being grown on a University of Wisconsin plot in the same field. The varieties may be released in a few years, Luckow said.

Outagamie GOP Sets Corn Roast For Aug. 19

Outagamie County Republicans have begun making plans for another annual corn roast.

This year's event, starting at 5 p.m., Aug. 19, will be, as in past years, at Sunset Point Park in Kimberly. John Gillespie, chairman of the 1965 corn roast, said today.

Present plans call for having state GOP office-holders in attendance, plus members of the State Legislature and Republican county office-holders.

Gillespie has appointed several cochairmen to be in charge of various portions of the corn roast program — Curt Biggar, ticket sales; county GOP chairman Murel Edinger, program; Henry Scheig, entertainment; Milton Arps, beverage stand; Lloyd Berken, food stand; Ralph Schilpp, bratwurst and meat, and Charles Wussow, corn.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard Kemps is assisting Gillespie.

World Paper Tonnage Hits 100 Million Mark

NEW YORK — Worldwide production and consumption of magazine Pulp & Paper said the pulp, paper and paperboard was the greatest in the industry's history in 1964.

For the first time, production of paper and paperboard exceeded the 100 million ton mark with production hitting 103,185,291 short tons.

This was an increase of 7,084,027 over 1963 figures. Only twice before—from 1954-55 and 1958-59—were there increases over 7 million, 7.6 and 7.7 million tons respectively.

Since global imports and exports tend to balance out, and because there was "no significant overall buildup or erosion million, followed by Canada with 3.3, Finland, 2.3, and the United States, 1.5 million.

United States paper and board production of 41,286,131 tons, about a 2 million ton increase, was about 40 per cent of the world's total and its consumption, swollen by over 6 million tons of Canadian newsprint, was 44 per cent. Up to the mid-'50's, United States production and consumption was over 50 per cent.

Canada's paper and board production of 9,712,561 tons and Japan's 8,103,660 ranked second and third, up 900,000 and 1.1 million respectively. In 10 years, Japan has quadrupled its production while the world output doubled.

Rank Next
The United Kingdom, with 4.9, U.S.S.R. with 4.5, and West Germany with 4.4 million ranked next, each having increased by about 320,000 to 310,000 tons. All three were ahead of Japan only six years ago.

In total pulp production, United States, with 31,746,000 short tons (38 per cent) and Canada, with 13,413,911, were leaders. Sweden, with 6.9; Finland, 5.8; Japan, 5.5 and the U.S.S.R. with 4.5 million ranked next.

In per capita consumption of paper, the report showed the United States leading with 478.5 pounds, followed by Sweden, 320; Canada, 305; the United Kingdom, 264; Denmark, 246; Switzerland, 221; Netherlands, 220; West Germany, 208; Norway, 205 and New Zealand, 202.

The U.S.S.R. was in 38th place with 40.3 pounds, ranking a few pounds behind Taiwan, Spain and Yugoslavia. Half of the 135 nations and territories use less than 10 pounds per person.

Walkaways Found in Stolen Car

WEYAUWEGA—A car reported stolen here Monday afternoon was found by Marshfield police Monday night along with two walkaways, 13 and 14 years old, from Winnebago County Hospital, Oshkosh.

Weyauwega Police Chief Lawrence Schmies said two who fit the description of the walkaways were seen in the area about 3 p.m. Monday. The car was taken from the city parking lot sometime between 1 and 6 p.m.

Walter Dean, Weyauwega owner of the car, told Schmies he had left the keys in his car while working at a garage nearby.

Schmies said this was the first car theft in the city for three years.

Nucelar Detecting Satellites Blasted Into Elliptical Orbits

Launching of Two Sentries, Pygmy Was Postponed From Monday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Two Sentry satellites and a tiny Pygmy satellite vaulted skyward today in a step toward development of a system to detect secret nuclear explosions anywhere from the surface of the earth to 200 million miles in space.

The launch had been scheduled Monday but delayed by mechanical troubles.

The trio of radiation-sensing payloads rode atop an Atlas-Agena rocket which blazed brilliantly into the early morning darkness at 3:27 a.m.

The Air Force said the three satellites had been drilled into separate egg-shaped orbits within 10 minutes.

Higher Than Plan

Preliminary orbital figures showed the satellites were higher than planned, but the Air Force said it still was pleased. It said the satellites went into a highly elliptical orbit ranging from 132 miles to 69,370 miles from the earth. The planned orbit was from 121 miles to 63,250 miles.

The Pygmy satellite was to remain in the elliptical path. But the twin Sentries were to be jockeyed at high altitude outposts to reinforce America's space patrol in policing the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

Within seconds after the Atlas-Agena blasted off, a smaller rocket, launched from the cape, darted skyward to study the Atlas-Agena's exhaust.

Because of a complex flight plan intended to station the twin satellites at the high point of the orbit, Air Force officials said they wouldn't know until about 10:00 a.m. Thursday whether the mission was completely successful.

The nuclear detection satellites, each weighing 524 pounds,

Prisoners Thwart Escape Attempt

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — As Mesa County jailer John McFall returned a group of prisoners to their cells recently, he was attacked by Elmer Joe Stewart, being held for Missouri authorities.

Several jail trustees jumped on Stewart, subduing him until McFall recovered and was able to get Stewart, 22, back behind bars. The jailer required four stitches for head lacerations.

Highest Total Of Negroes in 3 Academies

Officials Encouraged By Increased Interest In Military Futures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of Negro cadets and midshipmen at the three major service academies has reached a high point.

Counting the plebe classes which entered this month, there are 55 Negroes at Annapolis, West Point, and the Air Force Academy. This is 12 more than were enrolled at the end of the 1964-1965 academic year.

The 55 Negroes at the three academies still represent only a tiny fraction of the over-all total of about 9,700 midshipmen and cadets.

Nonetheless, officials professed to be encouraged that the trend is up.

These officials are using the "soft sell" method of trying to make Negro youths aware of the opportunities for going to the service academies.

No Bending

Authorities in the Pentagon's "equal opportunity" program stressed that qualifications are not being "bent," as they put it, to help Negro applicants make the grade into the academies.

West Point currently leads in the number of Negro cadets — 29 out of nearly 2,700. Next comes the Air Force Academy with 17 out of an enrollment of 2,900. The Naval Academy, with the biggest corps, has the fewest Negroes — only 9 out of 4,100.

There has been an upturn, too, in Negro graduates from the service academies. Last month, there were 11 who got their diplomas and their commissions — four from West Point, four from the Air Force Academy and three from the Naval Academy. This compared with seven in 1964.

Device Records 'Bandit' Payoff

LAST VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A new automated system called Project Count tells a casino owner exactly how much each slot machine pays.

"But the system doesn't work against the player," says Mike Wegmann at San Diego, Calif., who thought up the plan. "It also tells the owner when the machine is not paying off enough. Then he can increase the payoffs."

Mechanical problems often change the regulated cash flow Wegmann says.

Chance of Trouble Remote

States Demand Tariff On Liquor, Cigarettes

CHICAGO (AP) — You can get in trouble with the law in a number of states if you drive across their borders with liquor or cigarettes in your car. The chances, however, are remote.

Nearly all states have laws banning the import of alcohol or cigarettes without paying a tariff. A few states prohibit individuals from bringing in any beer or liquor for personal use.

The World Almanac in 1968 advertised a gallon "baby barrel" of 7-year-old Maryland rye whiskey shipped directly from a Baltimore distillery to the consumer.

Bypassing the middle man this way is a thing of the past. The reason is that practically every state relies on the import of tobacco products and for the same reason.

Boys Face Happy Odds at College

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Greensboro College, a girls school that went coeducational in 1954, is a happy exception to North Carolina's overcrowded colleges and universities.

"We can accept boys and now have space for about 40 in a brand new dormitory," said admissions officer Allen Kivett.

"Not only that," Kivett added, "but any boys who register here will be outnumbered by girls four to one."

Some Regulations

The states do not have the tariffs problems involved in trade between nations, but there are some regulations.

In some cases a state will ban the import of a product to protect a segment of its own economy. Wisconsin, for example, prohibits the sale of colored margarine to protect its dairy industry.

The import laws on alcohol and tobacco apply in some cases to individuals as well as retail and wholesale firms but officials concede it would be virtually impossible to enforce them against individual violators.

Limit Amount

States which either forbid individuals to import liquor or tobacco for personal use or limit to from a quart to a gallon the amount that can be brought in tax free include:

Virginia, Mississippi, Nevada, Georgia, Washington, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, Florida, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Indiana, Oregon, Iowa, Minnesota, Montana, California, Utah, Maine and Idaho.

In some of these states — Virginia, Pennsylvania, Oregon, Montana, Utah and Idaho — the sale of liquor is a state monopoly.

Teacher Corps Proposes to Use Peace Corps Method in Poor Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposed National Teachers Corps would apply Peace Corps principles to schools in impoverished rural and urban areas.

Under the plan, some 6,000 experienced teachers would be assigned to school districts with large numbers of poor families. In addition, college graduates who want to be teachers would be hired to assist them.

President Johnson proposed the Teachers Corps in a speech July 2 and urged in a message to Congress last Saturday that it be passed this year as part of a program that also would include fellowships for prospective teachers and aid for colleges to improve teacher training programs.

Congressional Hearings are Currently Under Way

Nelson Proposal

The Johnson Administration proposal is essentially an outgrowth of legislation introduced last winter by Sens. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Nelson proposed recruiting and training college graduates for two years of teaching and further professional training in schools serving areas of poverty. Kennedy's plan was to provide experienced teachers for service in such locales.

The combined Nelson-Kennedy proposals were still under consideration when Johnson told the National Education Association July 2:

"I will propose a National Teachers Corps to enlist thousands of dedicated teachers to work alongside of local teachers in city slums and in areas of rural poverty, where they can serve their nation."

Chicago Officials Won't Free Crime Chief From Jail

CHICAGO (AP) — Momo Salvatore Giancana, reputed chief of the Chicago crime syndicate, has failed again to get out of jail, where he has been for 49 days because he refuses to testify before a grand jury.

The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Monday rejected for the second time Giancana's request for freedom on bail.

Chief Judge William J. Campbell of U.S. District Court jailed Giancana, 57, on June 1 because Giancana refused to testify in the grand jury investigation of organized crime, although he was granted immunity from prosecution for any crimes he might admit during the questioning.

10th Reprieve Granted Negro Scheduled To Die in Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A man scheduled to die Friday in the state's electric chair has been given his 10th reprieve.

Gov. George C. Wallace delayed execution of Leroy Taylor, 22, of Talladega, until Aug. 20.

The governor granted the stay to study arguments presented in a clemency hearing Monday.

Educator Says North's De Facto Segregation Isn't Always Problem

Chicagoan Tells Conference Some Schools Can't be Integrated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House Conference on Education tackles this thorny question today: "How do you go about integrating the schools in predominately Negro South Chicago, Washington, D.C., and New York's Harlem?"

The problem was posed by Dean Roald Campbell of the University of Chicago's Graduate School of Education.

Campbell contends it can't be done.

The only practical solution to the problem, he said in a background paper distributed to all conference participants, is to upgrade the quality of education in all schools — white, Negro and mixed.

Cannot Accept View

Campbell said he could not accept the view that only integrated schools can be good schools.

"While I think we must promote integration," he said, "at the same time I do not believe we have hard data to support the point that only integrated education can be quality education."

The session on de facto segregation and the urban schools is just one of several highly controversial discussions scheduled for the two-day meeting.

Heated Debate

Perhaps the most heated debate will center on whether there should be some sort of national testing to determine the quality of public education.

Those who favor the idea say that without national testing, the American taxpayer doesn't know whether he is getting a bargain or being short-changed for the billions of dollars he spends on the schools.

Opponents center their attack on the fear that any national program of testing will inevitably lead to a national curriculum.

Boyle in Viet Nam Veteran Flier Gets First Experience as Cowboy

By HAL BOYLE

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Lt. Col. George F. Bauman in nearly 5,000 hours aloft in three wars had never served as an aerial cowboy before. But along the South Vietnamese battlefield the one thing you can expect is the unexpected. "You have to be ready to try anything," said Bauman, 44, who was raised on an apple ranch at Sonora, Calif. His first experience as a flying herdsman came recently in an action by U.S. Marines probing out from the air base at Chu Lai, 52 miles south of here. His co-pilot was Lt. George Dechant, 29, of Palmyra, Pa. "We were supporting a strike force of our troops that had been brought up by helicopter," said the lanky, six-foot-four colonel. He looks and talks like the late Gary Cooper and commands the only Marine Squadron of armed "Hueys" in the country. First Chase "We got two suspects cornered on a path leading to a river. We circled around and around them," Bauman said. "One managed to hide, but the other started to try to swim the river. We fired a few rounds to force him to turn back, and he did. As he left the water, his black pants fell off, but he kept running. "It's the first time we had ever acted as cowboys to round up the Viet Cong. I had never herded them before. "We cornered him again in some rocks and trees. I landed near him to point out his position to our ground troops. No Longer Fun "It had been funny up to then, but it ended tragically for him. He ran out into the water again. Our troops called on him to halt, but he wouldn't, and they fired. He died. "Eventually we rounded up four or five others hidden in the same area. As a Corsair fighter pilot in World War II, Bauman flew more than 100 missions and won the Distinguished Flying Cross at Pelleliu. "I shot up a number of Japanese planes, but never shot any down," the colonel remarked. In a year in Korea as a transport helicopter pilot he added more clusters to his Air Medal. Several Wounded Here he has flown 68 missions in two months in the most dangerous type of flying. Four of his six armed Hueys have been hit several times, and one pilot and a crewman have been wounded. The aircraft carry 36 rockets and 6 light machine guns. "About 5 to 10 per cent of our missions wind up in fire fights. We do fine in guerrilla situations against 5 or 10 Viet Congs," Bauman said. "The Huey has a place here. It can provide instant and less expensive firepower in such situations. But it should go against only small arms fire. It is too vulnerable to attack heavy fortifications protected by machine guns." Bauman is a man of strong conscience. "Who's Who? "The biggest problem here is to tell the friendlies from the enemy," he remarked. "You can't shoot indiscriminately. I don't believe in just going down and shooting at anybody. I don't fire at anyone unless I am fired on, or unless somebody is firing at our troops or one of our other planes." The colonel is worshipped by his men. One of them said, "any of us would fly through a needle stuck up in the middle of hell — if he told us to do it." Above the entrance to the squadron's operation tent is posted this sign: "When the will defies fear, when duty throws the gauntlet down to fate, when honor scorns to compromise with death, this is heroism." That is the slogan of "Bauman's Raiders."

Address Changes Required For Social Security Aids

May used to be considered the possible, meet your mailman at "moving" or housecleaning the door on the day he usually month of the year. However, delivers your check, Donnick people are on the move all year around these days. Frank M. Donnick, district Social Security manager, Appleton, urged social security beneficiaries to let the social security office know their new address as soon as possible. As a safeguard, Donnick also suggests you always identify yourself when cashing your social security check—when you identify yourself, you are doing your part in helping the Federal Government prevent fraudulent check cashing. Another good idea is to, when you are not entitled to your check because of work, divorce, remarriage, or any other terminating event, your check should be returned to the payment center. The circumstances as to why you are returning the check should be explained in a letter. Your social security checks probably provide a major portion of your income. Therefore, your cooperation is necessary to assure that you are paid correctly and on time.

Ribbons Are For Eating, and everyone who would have told Dick Winarski otherwise would have heard a storm of protest. The young man, winner of the largest eyes and youngest baby contests, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Winarski.

Ann Marie Warne Was wide-eyed as she kept her corner perch during the judging. The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross J. Warne won a ribbon for having the least hair for a child over a year old. At right, wearing two ribbons and still managing a ladylike look of disinterest, is Rebecca Hassler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hassler, who look the longest and curliest hair awards

Babies, in a variety of sizes, shapes and genders, literally stole the show at the city's playgrounds last week, as the Appleton Recreation Department completed its fourth week of the summer playground program.

Mothers, big sisters and neighbors were invited to parade youngsters under two years of age, with ribbons awarded winners. Among award classifications were largest eyes, bluest eyes, darkest eyes, least hair over a year of age, longest hair, curliest hair, youngest, oldest under two, most teeth under one year and fairest skin.

The youngsters photographed here took part in the baby show at Northside Kiwanis Park. Similar programs were held at all 14 playgrounds.

Eva Marie Nettekoven hasn't learned to read, but she knows how to sink her teeth into a good contest. The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rheinhold Nettekoven won the award for baby under a year with the most teeth. Below, quietly and contentedly watching the proceedings, Kathryn Carey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Carey, walked off with the 'best-behaved' ribbon. (Post-Crescent Photos by Jack Barta)

Cabinet Accessories Add Storage Space

You don't have to own your own home to have dividers, slide-out shelves and pan racks in the kitchen. New cabinet accessories that set-in rather than attach offer a variety of storage possibilities.

A variety of sizes and styles are available with all depths standardized. Some are slide-out shelves, others are bins, turntables, drawers, horizontal or vertical dividers, cutlery holders, lid holders, bread drawers or flour and sugar canisters.

If you move into a home and it isn't fully equipped find out if there are matching accessories to go with those pieces already in the kitchen. The builder will probably tell you the brand. Or look at a builder supply house or the sales room of a kitchen cabinet dealer or kitchen remodeler.

Some accessories are made of wire like a bicycle basket and they attach with screws or slide in place. Others are of rubber, plastic or wood. The set-in kinds that don't need installing are usually available at department stores, variety and hardware stores.

Investing in storage accessories that you can take with you calls for a flexible design. Rather than choosing a piece that serves only one purpose, consider something that might be used on closet shelves or in chests of drawers if you no longer want them in the kitchen.

Some of the pieces stack so that a two or three piece accessory breaks down into single shelves or drawers.

Note the material used in the accessories to see that it's attractive and easy to clean. Try to find a simple design without corners and crevices to gather dust.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Fesing, route 2, Chilton. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Meyer, route 1, Kiel.

Attending the bride were her sister, Mrs. Robert Nett, Kiel, as matron of honor, and Miss Joan Fesing and Miss Margaret Schneider, bridesmaids. Miss Debbie Meyer was junior bridesmaid. A brother-in-law of the bride, Robert Nett, Kiel, served as best man. Groomsmen were Lee Meyer and Dean Kraus. Ushering duties were performed by Jerome Fesing and Jerome Meyer. Richard Senkbeil acted as page. Guests attended a reception at Brunmeier's Hall. The newlyweds are employed at the Lauson Engine Division of Tecumseh Products Co., New Holstein. After a wedding trip to New York, the couple will reside at route 2, Kiel.

Promises Repeated Saturday

LITTLE CHUTE — Paul J. Vander Heyden claimed Miss Janice Marie Spierings as his bride at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. John Catholic Church. The Rev. Martin Vosbeck celebrated the nuptial mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Spierings, 810 Depot St., are the bride's parents. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Vander Heyden, 118 E. Randall St., Appleton.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Mrs. Eugene Janssen, as matron of honor, Miss Mary and Miss Helen Spierings as bridesmaids, and Miss Lois Ann Spierings, junior bridesmaid.

Marvin Wittrock, Appleton, acted as best man. Groomsmen were Robert Felix and Jack Spierings. Sharing ushering duties were Eugene Janssen and Adrian Unmuth.

The newlyweds were honored at a reception at the Little Chute Village Hall.

The bride, a graduate of Accredited School of Cosmetology, Green Bay, is employed at Milan Beauty Shoppe, Appleton. Her husband is with Norm Vander Heyden's Color Shop.

After a wedding trip to California, the couple will live at 223 E. Main St.

Miss Kline, Fiance Plan August Rite

The betrothal of Miss Darlene Ellen Kline to Mohsen Haghparsad-Rad has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kline, 1930 N. Alvin St. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ali Asghar Haghparsad-Rad, Tehran, Iran, and is a senior at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

Miss Kline attended Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh and is employed at Sears Roebuck and Co.

The couple plans to be married Aug. 14., at St. John Lutheran Church, Oshkosh.

Women Invade Exchange Floor

MONTREAL (AP)—Women will invade the trading floor of the Montreal Stock Exchange for the first time come October. Oddly enough, automation is responsible for the fall of one of the last of the male bastions.

When the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges move into Montreal's new skyscraper, Place Victoria, 16 women will replace the "chalk boys"—the men who write the bids of the traders on chalk boards.

But instead of chalk boards, the women will use the newly designed machines that handle the details of trading, transfer them immediately to a board and at the same time show them on television in broker's offices.

Operate Coolly

As console operators, the women will have to learn to be speedy on computer buttons, and to operate coolly amid the din. Like the chalk boys, they will learn to identify the voices of the various traders without looking up.

Nancy Horne, methods analyst, now is training six women for the job. The course includes classroom work on stock exchange methods and terminology as well as practical experience on the floor. Ten additional women will be trained before the fall.

The console operators will work from 9:30 to 3:45 p.m. daily, and in hiring Miss Horne says she is looking for "older, mature women who appreciate these hours."

"We don't want a big turnover in staff because the training period is too long to allow it," she says.

November Rite Planned by Engaged Pair

NEENAH — A Nov. 27 wedding is planned by Miss Elaine Frank and Gerry Geiger. The couple's engagement has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Frank, 314 E. Franklin Ave. Mr. Geiger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Geiger, 1018 Main St.

The bride-elect is a secretary at Atlas Tag Co. Her fiance is with the Main Auto Body Shop and Gib's Sinclair Service Station.

The Ailing House

Antenna No Lightning Protection

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: I always thought the grounding of my TV antenna also acted as an effective lightning arrester for the whole house. Now a friend tells me this isn't so at all. Is he right?

A: He certainly is. If you want lightning protection for your house, you need a separate system. As the Fire Underwriters will point out, if you are going to have a lightning protection system installed, have it done by an experienced company.

A poorly planned and inadequate system is actually worse than having no lightning rods at all. Incidentally, to be on the safe side, unplug your TV set during electrical storms. Even with a perfect ground, unpredictable lightning still might jump into your set through the lead-in. Nothing can wreck a good TV set more effectively.

Program Plans For The year were discussed by the executive committee of the Wisconsin Catholic War Veterans Auxiliary Sunday at the Terrace Motor Inn. Above are Mrs. Martin Hanegraaf, Kimberly, Mrs. Lawrence Steffens, Appleton, Mrs. Earl McCormick, Fond du Lac, state president, and Mrs. Reinhart Gresenz, Appleton. The women are state trustees. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Q: Around the edges of the fireplace opening, particularly along the top, the bricks have become quite soiled. I've tried to wash them with detergent, but with only a qualified success. Can you recommend more effective measures?

A: Scrubbing with a mechanic's hand soap—the reliable oldtime type which contains sand—is usually enough for the job.

Q: To preserve the wood from rotting, I treated all my new fence posts with creosote. But even after two separate paintings the creosote bleeds through the paint. How can I prevent this?

A: Aluminum paint is quite effective. But nothing is much good until the creosote has weathered for a couple of years: the Department of Agriculture says "several years." But since you've started, make the next coat aluminum and have hope for the best.

To Abandon Suit May Cost Game

Don't abandon a suit just because it will cost you a trick to lead it. That trick may be unimportant compared to the cost of sitting by and doing nothing.

West led the jack of hearts to South's queen. Declarer led a club to dummy's ten and returned a diamond to try a finesse with the ten.

West won with the queen of diamonds and looked for a safe suit to tackle. The first trick told him that South had the king of hearts, so a heart continuation would give South a second heart trick.

West shifted to the nine of spades, and declarer said, "Thank you very much." South won in dummy with the king of spades and forced out the ace of diamonds. Now declarer was sure of ten tricks no matter what West did.

West's stinging cost him the game and rubber. West could afford to continue the hearts when he got in with the queen of diamonds.

South would get a second heart trick but would have to lead diamonds sooner or later in the attempt to make nine tricks. Then West would take the ace of diamonds and the rest of the hearts to defeat the contract.

There was no danger that the second heart trick would give South nine tricks. The first few tricks located all of South's high cards, amounting to 15 points. He could not have any more, in view of his bidding.

Hence South was limited to two spades, two hearts, and four clubs. It was safe to give him the second heart trick.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one spade and the next player passes. You hold: S A K 5 3; H 8 3 2; D 7 2; C K J 10 6. What do you say?
Answer: Bid three spades.

Carrot Curls
Use a swivel-blade vegetable parer to have paper-thin, long, wide pieces of carrot to add to a tossed salad. If you like, you can roll up each carrot piece, secure with a toothpick and soak in ice water. When the toothpicks are removed, there will be carrot "curls" to add to the salad.

Parents' World

Argues No Method Best in Raising Children

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: How can you say that certain ways are better than others when it comes to raising children? Don't you know that every child is different? I know from my own experience that some children are easier to raise than others. And some are a problem because of their temperaments. Spanking may harm one child, but it won't even faze another one Mrs. M.O.

Eve Jones

Like most parents with several children, I agree with you that even children in the same family can be very different. I thought we had given him honest answers to his questions about sex and had helped him develop a healthy attitude toward women. So I can't understand why he's looking at trash like this Mrs. H.R.

It's usually difficult for grown women to understand the natural desire of most young males to look at girlie pictures. Females don't have this same kind of curiosity. But don't fear: Your son's behavior isn't necessarily connected with any failure on your part to help him develop healthy attitudes about sex. And aside from making him disappointed the next time he looks at average women in bathing suits, his curiosity isn't likely to cause any trouble. If you're certain he knows the information appropriate for his age that's discussed in my pamphlet, "Telling Your Teenager About Sex," try to forget you ever looked under his mattress.

Divorcee Straightens Out the Record of Who Gets Children

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why is it that whenever a couple is divorced, if the husband gets the children it is assumed that: (1) He caught her under the worst possible circumstances or (2) She is a tramp who didn't want to be bothered with the children or (3) She is mentally unstable and/or an alcoholic.

I would like to dispel these notions once and for all, and I am well qualified to do so since I'm a divorcee who is not a tramp, was not caught, nor am I incompetent or alcoholic. I gave up my children simply because I felt they would be better off with their father.

My husband and I never got along. I married him to please a socially ambitious mother. The children adore their father. They tolerate me. They think I am weak, insecure and addle-brained. They think their father is strong, brilliant and capable. I have never been able to control them. Whatever their father says is gospel.

When we split up several months ago my husband said, "Shall we ask the children with whom they want to live?"

(They are 15, 13 and 12.) I replied, "No, I couldn't bear the humiliation of having them choose. Let's tell them they will live with their father." That settled in and I'm sure they were relieved.

So, here's a different kind of letter for your column, Ann Landers. Label it "Education." Sincerely yours. — Odd Woman Out

Dear Woman: You do not sound weak, insecure or addle-brained to me, but you have sadly underestimated yourself. Good luck in making a new life — and thanks for the "education."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing because my 14-year-old niece asked me to. I don't know the answer but I'm hoping you will.

My niece is a very sweet person and has many friends, both girls and boys. They are allowed to come to the house to sing, dance, play records and just visit, which I think is perfectly fine. The problem is the girl's mother.

She's in her middle 30's and has five children. The woman wears a bikini from the first day of spring until snow hits the ground. She knows she has an outstanding figure and apparently she wants everyone else to know it, too. The little high school boys who come to the house look and look until I think their eyes are going to pop out of their heads.

The bikinis this mother wears have the narrowest brassieres I've ever seen. The panties are little more than what the strippers in a burlesque house wear.

I think it is positively indecent and so does her 14-year-old daughter. Do you feel that this woman is right in her insistence that she can wear anything she pleases in her own home? — G. R. M.

Dear G. R. M.: I believe a woman who is alone in her home has the right to wear anything she pleases or nothing at all, if she pleases — provided the shades are down and the doors are bolted. When others are present, however, it is indecent to go around half naked (or in her case seven-eighths naked is more accurate).

I hope this mother will put on a house dress when her children and their friends are home — before the daughter starts to meet her pals around the corner.

Parents are people — they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1965)

Gemini Inspires Fashion

By LOUISE HICKMAN

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Emilio Pucci today launched what he called "The Gemini IV Look" in high fashion.

The collection, presented as two days of fall and winter fashion showings ended in Florence, was inspired by the walk in space last month by Lt. Col. Edward H. White II.

But without the bubble-domed helmet that went with everything, the Pucci clothes could keep both feet on the ground.

Tubular ring collars were about the only space-suit derived detail on reversible coats and jackets with supple, fluid fit. Clothes were fairly short and some were worn with boots. Reversible jackets went over light wool dresses with waists mostly high.

Color Genius

The natural colorings for the suit ensembles were not quite natural for Pucci. His color genius burst forth in the coat costumes. A chocolate coat reversing to orange sherbert went over a camel dress. Camel reversed to pink and orange check over orange, worn with a rust-colored bubble dome. Pucci pink reversed to lime over a pink and lime plaid with pink and orange dome.

He showed some above-knee knicker jump suits in jersey. Sleeveless, they were worn over long-sleeved print jersey tops and print jersey stockings.

On the final program in Florence's Pitti Palace Monday, Fabiani also showed his couture collection. Standouts in it were square-shouldered silhouettes fitted close at the bosom and swinging loose from there. Printed coats swung out from high on the side or back. Sleeveless empire dresses were smooth cut, and often had wrapover skirts.

Pucci on Sunday showed his boutique collection, and the big news was a pageboy look — tabards and hose in mad, more-or-less matching, silk prints.

Simultaneously with the shows here, other houses were opening in Rome. The news there came from Valentino, who Sunday night displayed a shoulder squared and slightly padded. It gave a resolute look to his favorite woman who is small, neat and very chic.

Radish Relish

Sliced radishes marinated in vinegar seasoned with salt and sugar make an excellent relish.

One of the Creations from Tricot House shown in Rome Sunday was this outfit that included egg yellow knee pants, frill-edged in gray, dotted with black to match the high, backless top. The sketch at right shows a design from the Ken Scott House. The oasis blue cotton caftan is mysteriously veiled in printed silk. (AP Wirephotos)

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Smooth Acne Scars

A lovely writes: I had a very severe case of adolescent acne. It was not treated until the condition became alarming. As a result, my face is scarred with pits. I have heard that such scars can be removed. Is that true? Is it painful? Is it really successful?

The Answer: A medical procedure known as dermabrasion has general acceptance among brush. Then a bandage dressing is applied for twenty-four hours. The healing period is two weeks, but some redness persists for a longer time.

The results are something of a miracle. At least sixty percent of the scars are removed; the rest appear much less noticeable. Perfect results are not often obtained unless dermabrasion is repeated. And that it may be, but the necessity is seldom so great that repetition is warranted.

Your doctor or your County Medical Society will put you in touch with a recognized specialist in dermabrasion. No lesser recommendation will do.

Facial flaws both large and small can be repaired by make-up. How to give the illusion of perfection to imperfect features is detailed in my leaflet, "Make-up Make-believe." To obtain a copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and five cents in coin.

Baby Shows Endurance Through Changing Rules

Did you know that new parents are usually disappointed in their baby's looks and in their own maternal and paternal feelings? That the "soft spot" on a baby's head, which many mothers are fearful of touching, is protected by a membrane as tough as canvas? That the emotional state of the parents may help determine whether or not an infant has severe colic?

Many new mothers expect to respond to their babies with an immediate surge of maternal feeling—yet, according to Dr. Benjamin Spock, this feeling often develops only gradually after the infant has been home awhile. New fathers, too, may not react quite as they expected—and one reason may be the difficulty in recognizing their flesh and blood in the newborn's red, puffy, wax-coated skin, fuzzi-covered body and frequently lopsided head!

Problems Linger

These non-beauty marks disappear in fairly short order—but other problems may linger on. Why do colic symptoms bother so many babies (and their parents) for the first three months and then disappear almost magically? Many doctors blame the immaturity of the infant's digestive and nervous systems, which by the age of three months have begun to "settle down". Yet fatigue and tension in other family members can be an important contributing factor in infant colic, studies have shown.

"Treat the mother," some modern pediatricians jokingly recommend in colic cases—yet our ancestors often did the equivalent! In ages past, the baby's medicine might be given directly to the nurse—on the theory that she would pass on the cure. One old remedy was a mixture of hot water, oil and pepper—enough to make any nurse or baby nurse a justifiable resentment.

Diaper rash is another persistent problem: experts have called it the commonest of all baby rashes in the first year. Yet it's still surrounded by many old-fashioned fancies and fallacies: some people think only tiny babies are subject to it; other believe it's something all babies have to go through, sooner or later.

Cause of Rash

But the fact is that the major cause of diaper rash—ammonia formed by bacteria which go to work on wet diapers—can be stopped in its tracks by proper laundering procedures. A new germicidal agent, which germ-proofs diapers from change to change, can be added to diapers in the soaking pail or in the washing machine.

Fortunately, baby is an amazingly tough little creature, from his wiggly toes to the top of his head, with its fontanel or "soft spot" which is actually very hard to injure. The system that controls his body temperature is working quite efficiently by the time his weight is up to seven pounds. In his first few months of life, hardly any of his elders can match him for his resistance to colds. This toughness has stood in good stead over the centuries—for our ancestors had some pretty fancy fancies about the care and feeding of babies.

Babies in History

In the days of the Roman Empire, baby was weaned at six months—and was put on bread crumbs mixed with soup and eggs, and heavily laced with wine—a sort of built-in burper! In 18th century England, it was believed that children were born hungry—so a spoonful of sugar or butter was thrust in the newborn's mouth immediately upon arrival. In that era, newborn babies were fed ten or twelve times a day.

"Infantile" ideas about what baby inherits have been common in every culture. A baby born with one or more teeth, the Romans believed, would surely grow up warlike and pugnacious! This was viewed with approval in boy babies, alarm in girl-children.

To this day, some modern mothers think they can "mark" their unborn children if they experience a sudden shock. And some women still feel they must "eat for two" during pregnancy. Actually the weight of a newborn baby is not dependent entirely or even in great part on the quantities its mother eats; heredity is a much more important factor than diet in deciding baby's birth weight.

Somehow, despite all grown-up fancies and fallacies, baby manages to more than hold his own. But any infant would agree that if his parents don't utilize the findings of modern scientists and the updated methods of baby care, why it would be a crying shame.

TECHOCRACY

POVERTY IN THE U.S. will not be eliminated by spending huge sums of money. The U.S. has in abundance everything that is needed by its citizens to live rich whole-some lives.

We have poverty because of an obsolete Price System which hasn't been changed in over 160 years and no longer serves the people. Our youth are being gyped out of their future. What is needed is a program that will use our resources in the most efficient way possible for the benefit of all the people. TECHNOCRACY IS THAT PROGRAM.

ing him appear like a disgusting animal. Poor schools always have inadequate teachers.

True — False — There is often a kind of "peace corps" spirit among teachers. One man reports a school in a slum area as having a "magnificent faculty." Every ordinary teacher had been able to transfer out. Those who remained were "volunteers" who stayed on because they wanted to provide the children there with the best education possible. We have personally known a number of dedicated teachers who have deliberately remained where they were needed most.

You can rid yourself of tensions! If you fear people, if you're mistrustful, if you get moody often, if you feel inferior — then read the hard-hitting booklet, "Tensions and How to Master Them." A copy's yours for 25 cents and your name and address (including ZIP Code) sent to "Let's Explore Your Mind," care of the Post-Crescent. Allow about three weeks for delivery.

Alan Hale Jr. Often Mistaken for Father

Actor Carbon Copy of His Illustrious Parent in Appearance, Voice and Laugh

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON

Guest Columnist

HOLLYWOOD — Hollywood's second generation has had a variety of problems in the not always happy task of footsteps following. Some have made headlines, others are just whispered about.

Hale

Happily, Alan Hale Jr. has a sense of humor about his "problem" and can laugh about it while other second generation lads and lassies have, on occasion, become unglued over far less.

The problem with which young Hale has learned to live is that he's constantly mistaken for his father, who was starred in nearly 200 motion pictures before his death in 1949.

In physical appearance, in voice and hearty laugh, Hale is a carbon copy of his father. The confusion has been compounded since TV by the showing of all his father's old films on home screens.

"The older I become the more the confusion," he grins. "It's almost as if I'm two people, not one. Even old friends get confused. When the old Errol Flynn movie, 'Robin Hood' played on television for the first time, one of them said to me, 'Saw you on TV last night. Great. I had to tell him. That wasn't me. That was my father. That film was made in 1937.'"

"It's also almost like my dad isn't gone. Because of TV, we're still talking about him constantly. At least once a week my children (he has four) chorus,

Young Hale's own career has not suffered. He was seen as a Texas business tycoon on a recent episode of My Favorite Martian on CBS and he's "Daddy, look—Grandpa is on television."

He has starred in two TV series (Biff Baker and Casey Jones) and next fall he will be teamed with Bob (Maynard) Denver and Jim Backus in a third series, Gilligan's Island. The show, about five men and two dolls marooned on a tropical island, will be seen every Saturday night on CBS.

"It's all comedy falls and nonsense," he admits, "but it should be good for a lot of laughs."

Like his father, young Hale is an ambassador of good will for show business wherever he goes. With huge proportions (he's 6'2" and weighs 225 pounds), a warm personality and a booming laugh, he is quickly recognized by movie and TV fans.

But not always as himself, you understand. He'd like to have a dollar, he laughs, for every time he has explained: "That wasn't me—that was my father."

Abe Lincoln New Star of Disneyland

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Walt Disney celebrated the 10th anniversary of Disneyland by giving his $52-million pleasure park a new star: Abraham Lincoln.

The life-like Lincoln, an electronic marvel created by Disney's wizards, drew warm applause Sunday from anniversary audiences. It is a more advanced model than the one that has attracted 4 million visitors at the Illinois Pavilion at the New York World's Fair.

This Lincoln stands, gestures with 48 movements and delivers with the voice of actor Royal Dano a compilation of the 16th president's utterances on liberty. The face and head, modeled after a life mask, combine 17 different movements.

The cost of the Lincoln exhibit: $2.5 million. Disney said the theater cost $1.5 million and research for the animated Abe was reported at $1 million.

"Walt's Folly?"

Sunday's anniversary contrasted with Disneyland's opening exactly 10 years ago, when some termed the $17-million investment in the midst of orange groves "Walt's Folly."

Disney, who borrowed on his life insurance to open the park, had the last laugh. Disneyland grew from 22 to 48 large-scale attractions, and attendance climbed to 6 million yearly.

Of all those who visit Disneyland none seems to draw more pure enjoyment than Walt Disney.

The Illinois-born movie-maker sat enraptured through three performances of the Lincoln show and cheerfully admitted his reasons for his pleasure: "I've always been a billboard American. I guess I've got a red, white and blue stripe up my back. Why, I sit and cry at that last song ('Battle Hymn of the Republic')."

Writers Are Heroes in This 'Combat'

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 11)—"A Cry in the Ruins" on Combat is another victory for the series. The heroes are writers Edward J. Lakso and A. Martin Zweiback who have captured an arresting portrait of a desperate woman searching for her lost child. Also credit Vic Morrow, who plays Sgt. Saunders in the series, and has tautly directed the episode. (R)

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5)—"Beat the Plowshare, Edge the Sword" is one of Mr. Novak's more interesting episodes. Concerning an ex-hoodlum, who plays father to four orphaned senior high boys, the script is highly reminiscent of the old "Dead End Kids" movies, with sassy, tough dialogues and down-to-earth philosophy. (R)

7:30-8 (Channel 11)—One of those wonderfully nutty plots sends the men of McHale's Navy into an elaborate scheme to see that poor neglected POW Fuji gets some mail. So he writes a letter to his girl, but the letter winds up being dropped on Japanese territory as a propaganda leaflet. (R) 7:30-8:30 (Channel 2)—Hollywood Talent Scouts has a hefty cast of top performers—Ethel Merman, Fabian, Dale Robertson and Rose Marie. Among the newcomers they introduce are singer Tom Carley, trumpeter Robert Montecello, the Baytown Folk Singers, and comics Bill Skiles and Peter Henderson.

9-10 (Channel 5)—Hullabaloo gives Michael Landon, "Little Joe Cartwright" of Bonanza, a chance to swing and sing tunes like "Make a Long Time Man Feel Bad" and "Moonshine Can." It's a nimble and noisy session, with Ian and Sylvia, Dionne Warwick, Linda Bennett, Peter and Gordon, the Vibrations, Joe Brown and His Bruvvers and the Headhunters. (R—COLOR)

9-10 (Channel 2)—"A Couple of Dozen Tiny Pills" on The Doctors and the Nurses is an overdrawn affair, concerning a neglected doctor's wife who turns to thoughts of suicide when her husband goes on a hanky-panky spree. Pure soap opera from start to finish. (R)

9-10 (Channel 11)—The Fug-

tive's "Ballad for a Ghost" stars Janis Paige as a singer with emotional and physical problems. According to the script she looks like David Janssen's dead wife. Viewers with long memories will remember when the wife appeared in a show last year, she was played by Dianne Brewster, to whom Miss Paige bears no resemblance. (R)

750,000 Boats Afloat In State During Summer

BY E. H. JORRIS M.D.

During this summer three-quarters of a million boats will be afloat in our state's water at one time or another and at least 40 per cent of these will be from out of state.

With so many people and so many boats there are accidents and deaths — last year there were 146. The law enforcement division of the Wisconsin Conservation Department obtains a detailed account of every drowning in the state and a similar record of every boating accident where damages totaling $100 are involved.

Of the 146 drownings that took place in 1964, there were 64 in inland lakes and ponds, 52 in rivers and streams, 17 in the Great Lakes, 5 in swimming pools, 3 in quarries and 4 in other places.

Seventy of the victims, almost half, were 19 years of age or younger. Reports indicate that 50 of the victims could not swim, 41 could swim and there was no information on the other 55 victims.

Forty-one of the 1964 drownings were brought about by boating accidents. Two of the victims were wearing life preservers while 39 were not. The record indicates that only nine of the 37 boats involved in the fatal accidents were known to have had life preservers on board.

If you use a boat, learn boating safety as well as the learning to swim. And obtain and wear life preservers and have enough for every passenger in your boat.

Packer's Paul Hornung Anxious for 1965 Training Camp to Get Underway

BY MIKE WALTER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"We're pretty optimistic about it. We feel we've got as good a ball club as anyone else."

But Paul Hornung corrected himself: "We've still got the best team in football." And there was a noticeable tone of pride as he changed the adjective from the comparative to superlative.

The Green Bay Packer running back had just attended a short football clinic and autograph session Monday morning for about 200 youths from throughout the country at the Chicago White Sox boys' camp in Brothertown, along the eastern shore of Lake Winnebago.

Hornung had been away from the pro football wars for seven months and, after getting an overdosed taste of the banquet circuit, was anxious to start playing again. He officially begins workouts Wednesday at the Packer training camp, with headquarters at St. Norbert College, West De Pere, and the Oneida Street practice field, Green Bay.

Bout With Army

Hornung has had more than one stumbling block in his career with the Packers. He has had a bout with the Army, being called up in mid-season of the Packers' 1961 championship year; with a pinched nerve in the neck, which has bothered him "on and off for three years;" and with the National Football League, when Commissioner Pete Rozelle suspended him for the 1963 season for betting on games, none of which involved the Packers.

Hornung has every intention of making the team this year in the same spectacular manner as he did in the early years of the Lombardi regime—as the regular left halfback and full-time place kicker. The Packers acquired kicker Don Chandler from New York during the off-season, but the player who holds the all-time NFL single-season scoring record does not intend to stop performing duties he considers his.

"I may have trained a little too hard before the 1964 season started," was one of his answers to the problems that plagued him last year—which included 26 field goal misses in 35 attempts. Coach Vince Lombardi had him working out in mid-April after the suspension was lifted by Rozelle and it's possible that he reached a peak long before the NFL season got underway.

No special conditioning was prescribed by Lombardi this year and Hornung has done little on his own other than periodic YMCA basketball workouts.

Team is Shrinking

Packer trades and retirements have shrunk the squad that won three straight division crowns beginning in 1960. Jesse Whitten and Jerry Norton have retired from the defensive backfield. ("They'll find somebody . . . I hope") and tight end Ron Kramer has played out his option and is not expected back (Somebody's going to have to play that spot"). Dan Currie's trade to Los Angeles has made for one less competitor at a linebacking spot, but the Packers—as has been the case for several years—remain deep there. Hornung looks for another fine performance from the offensive line, which last year stood out even minus all-pro guards Jerry Kramer and Fuzzy Thurston. "It'd sure help if Jerry would be ready, though," he said. At his own position, he is awaiting another season of constant pounding from opposing linebackers and tackles. This contact, however, is the name of the game, and it includes blocking.

Enjoys Blocking

Long noted as one of the finest blocking backs in football, Hornung said he likes this sometimes thankless chore. "You've got to like it if you're going to do it well," he admitted.

The 1956 Notre Dame graduate and Heisman Trophy winner said he plans to play one or two more years in pro ball, depending "on the type of year we have." Like all athletes, he would rather finish on a high note, which means with another championship for Green Bay.

Hornung runs his own promotion business in the off-season, promoting closed-circuit television programs and other sports events. After the present year, however, he would like to spend some time overseas entertaining U. S. troops.

Enjoys Golfers

"I was going to go to Viet Nam this summer for the State Department," he said, "but when they had that embassy bombing it was called off." He still would like to make the trip. "If it's all right" as far as the Viet Cong situation is concerned.

Hornung, who feels he may have missed his vocation, was on his way Monday to play in a golf jamboree sponsored by the Packers at Oneida Country Club in Green Bay.

As an outsider looking in at the golf world, he admitted that "that's the life. If I'd only started playing it as a boy . . ."

At Oneida last week he carded a 12-over-par 48 on the front nine, then came in with a one-under 35 on the back.

Anyone who knows anything about golf will agree with Hornung's conclusion that it's pretty ridiculous to shoot 12-over for nine and then finish as he did. But, like any other golfer, he was quick to look forward to the next round by second-guessing a missed five-foot putt on the short 11th hole.

"I should have had a 34," he lamented.

Jack Nicklaus Increases PGA Money Winnings

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Big Jack Nicklaus' second-place finish and $12,000 in the Canadian Open Sunday boosted his over-all golf earnings for the year to $80,488. Of that, $69,700 was in official PGA tournaments.

Nicklaus has won two and placed in the first five 11 times in 14 tournaments. Tony Lema, who has participated in 20 tournaments this year, was runner-up with $56,605 in official events and $63,384 over-all.

Australian Bruce Devlin was third with $55,595 official and $58,859 over-all.

Perry, Stange Hurl 4-Hitters as Twins, Cleveland Triumph

By DICK COUCH

When Jim Perry made his first big league pitch, Hal Naragon was on the receiving end. Perry returned the favor Monday night by presenting Naragon with his first managerial catch — and left Sam Mele sitting pretty.

Mele, beginning a five-day enforced vacation — the result of a hassle Sunday with Umpire Bill Valentine — watched from the pressbox as his Minnesota Twins, with Naragon in command, whipped the Los Angeles Angels 5-2 behind Perry's four-hitter.

The victory kept the Twins 3½ games in front in the American League race and gave Perry and Naragon, batterymates at Cleveland six years ago, perfect 1965 records.

Perry, who broke in with the Indians in 1959, teaming with catcher Naragon in his first start, shook off early home runs by the Angels' Joe Adcock and Jim Fregosi Monday night and breezed to his seventh victory without a loss.

Used in Relief

The tall right-hander, used exclusively in relief last year, his first full season with the Twins, has won three of four starts since quitting the bullpen July 5. His earned run average is a sparkling 2.05.

Naragon, who finished his active career at Minnesota and has been a Twins' coach since 1963, disclaimed credit for his first success as a pilot.

"We'll go right on doing things just like Sam does

Johnson Hurls Braves' Initial Shutout of Year

6-0 Triumph Over Mets Boosts Club Into Third Place

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Braves' Ken Johnson, shutout victor in Milwaukee's 6-0 conquest of the New York Mets Monday, has a wonderful new feeling.

"I started playing ball in 1952," Johnson explained, "and except for two months with Cincinnati, I never finished in the first division."

With Johnson, acquired from Houston May 23 winning his fourth straight, the Braves strengthened their position in the standings, moving into third place ahead of the San Francisco Giants.

The Braves are now five games out of first place and have won seven straight.

Johnson, who has pitched 22 2-3 innings without giving up, had all the offensive help he needed from the Braves' power hitters.

Mary Beth Nienhaus Ties for Runnerup Honors With 82

RACINE (AP) — A note of warning to ladies of the links: there's another Carol Sorensen burning up Wisconsin's golf courses.

The spelling may be different, but the caliber of play is not. Seventeen-year-old Carol Sorensen with an "e", as in eagle, shunned defense of her state junior crown Monday to shoot for the 53rd annual Wisconsin Women's golf tourney title and walked away with the qualifying medal on her first try.

The high school senior, a hometown heroine, shot a 39-42-81 over the familiar 5,797-yard Meadowbrook course. Three veterans, including a six-time champion, deadlocked at 82.

British Women's champion Carol Sorensen of Janesville passed up the tourney to play in the Women's Western at Wayzata, Minn., but she will be followed by her namesake to Arizona State after graduation. Miss Sorensen may even follow Miss Sorensen in trophy collecting.

Meets Mrs. Greene

The Racine Sorensen was to meet Mrs. J. M. Greene of Cambridge as the 16 low qualifiers began match play today.

The teen-ager finished eight over the women's par of 35-38-73 Monday, bogeying the last three holes. "Suddenly, I just couldn't hit the ball," she said.

Mrs. Paula Clauder, a Milwaukee grandmother who has won this tournament six times, shot a 40-42-82. Mary Beth Nienhaus of Appleton, state public links champion, had a 42-40-82 and Mrs. Rita Houston of Green Bay, former Northeastern titlist, carded a 41-41-82.

The defending champion, four-time winner Mrs. Jack Williams of Milwaukee, used three fewer putts than Carol, but came in two strokes back at 42-41-83.

The pairings for today, with other qualifying scores:

Miss Sorensen vs. Mrs. Greene (85).

Mrs. Clauder vs. Mrs. J. A. Anhalt of Manitowoc (86).

Miss Nienhaus vs. Mrs. Robert Krogstad of Madison (86).

Mrs. Houston vs. Mrs. John Speer of Milwaukee (86).

Mrs. Williams vs. Kathy Curran of Antigo (86).

Joan Schlicht of Madison (84) vs. Mrs. Sandra Walsh of Madison (88).

Mrs. G. B. Bower of Milwaukee (85) vs. Marilyn Berry of Wisconsin Dells (88).

Mrs. Earl Newman of Milwaukee (85) vs. Mrs. Carl Van Beck of Green Bay (89).

Bloop Single, Error Key to 2-1 Triumph

BY TERRY GALVIN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A checked-swing single by Cedar Rapids' catcher Harry Laiolo and subsequent error in the second inning at Goodland Field Monday night proved to be the difference as the Fox Cities Foxes dropped a 2-1 Midwest League verdict.

The win was the 17th in succession for the invading Cardinals, a new ML record. The Cards' broke the old mark with their 7-3 triumph over the Foxes Sunday.

The Foxes and Cedar Rapids wind-up the 3-game series at 8 p.m. today at Goodland. Tonight's attraction is billed as the Aid Association for Lutherans booster game. Admittance is free with the AAL tickets.

Foxes' Manager Billy DeMars hopes to snap the CR success string and will bank on right-hander Larry Connell on the mound.

Stopped His Swing

Laiolo, who stopped his swing before it reached the halfway point, tapped a fluke hit over Dick Hickerson's head at first and into short right field. Elmore Hill erred in retrieving the sphere and both runners crossed the plate.

The Foxes had jumped into a temporary 1-0 lead in the first.

Common Draft Idea Rejected by Lombardi

Packer Mentor Picks Baltimore As Team to Beat

GREEN BAY (AP) — Green Bay Packers Coach Vince Lombardi closed the doors of Milwaukee County Stadium to any American Football League team for at least three year Monday night.

Lombardi, also general manager of the National Football League club, noted the Packers had an exclusive contract for the stadium, which is used for about half of Green Bay's home games.

Milwaukee has been mentioned as the possible home of an expansion team in the AFL, but Lombardi said, "They can not play in County Stadium where we have a contract until 1968."

He also rejected the idea of a common draft between the rival leagues for college players instead of the current high-priced bidding that has produced bonuses ranging as high as a reported $400,000.

Compete for Talent
"I would rather compete financially for the talent," said Lombardi.

He called a common draft "foolish" and added, "You don't draft anything to help your competition."

At the same time, Lombardi said, "You can't exist in the NFL unless you have new talent coming up every year."

As for the 1965 season, he said, "We don't have the best rookie talent since I have been in Green Bay but we are fortunate in that we drafted some futures a year ago."

Rookies will report to the Packers training camp at St. Norbert College Wednesday.

Top prospects include halfback Junior Coffey of Washington, linebacker Bill Curry of Georgia Tech, and end Allen Brown of Mississippi.

Lombardi made his comments at the annual Packer reception for newspapermen and radio and television sportscasters. The Packers coach said he planned to assign Paul Hornung to do place kicking, an aspect which cost Green Bay several games last season. Lombardi said Don Chandler, acquired from the New York Giants, would handle punting this fall and would take over place kicking also if Hornung failed to regain his accuracy.

Lombardi picked the Baltimore Colts as the team to beat in the Western Division and said a record of at least 10-4 probably would be needed to win.

White Sox Ed Short Wants Spitter Legalized or Rule Rigidly Enforced

By JOE MOOSHIL
CHICAGO (AP) — Let's legalize the spitball or enforce the rule against it.

That's the cry of Ed Short, general manager of the Chicago White Sox. And Short has the backing of Al Lopez, the field manager.

Since taking the reins of the White Sox in 1961, Short has been battling for legalization of the spitball which was outlawed in 1920.

At that time, pitchers who depended upon the spitball were allowed to throw it until their careers ended. Then came the lapse.

In recent years, however, managers in both leagues have been complaining too many pitchers have been throwing illegal pitches.

Latest Flareup
The latest flareup was by Lopez against John Wyatt, ace reliever of the Kansas City A's. Lopez insists Wyatt is using petroleum jelly to make his throws more effective. Several weeks ago, National League managers were howling that Bob Shaw of the San Francisco Giants was using the spitball.

Short's argument is simple. He puts it this way:

"There isn't an umpire in either league who doesn't know what pitcher has what pitches. Let's say a pitcher throws a fast ball, a curve and a slider.

"When his Tosses start falling off the table, by that I mean breaking down in an unusual manner, then the umpire must suspect something is wrong.

Will Soon Learn
"Do they do anything about it. The answer is no. They check the ball but by that time whatever was on the ball has been wiped off. Who are we kidding?"

"The umpires insist on being shown but they should be able to determine an illegal pitch on their own.

"Now, lets say the spitball is legalized. The hitters will soon learn what pitchers can throw it and they'll be prepared. It will no longer be a shock to them.

"Don't get me wrong. If a pitcher can throw it and get away with it, more power to him. I'm not blaming the pitchers. I'm blaming the rules and the umpires' failure to enforce them.

"To me it seems to be an unenforceable rule," continued Short. "If that's the case then let's legalize the spitter."

Would Short care to name the pitchers who are guilty?

"No I wouldn't. But I'll say there are enough around the league to be effective enough to make a difference in the pennant race."

Short had another point in question.

"The umpires make no bones about determining whether a pitcher is throwing at a batter and they are quick to make a decision on that. But when it comes to the spitter, they refuse to take a stand."

Everett Case Has Surgery

Former N. C. State Cage Mentor Listed 'Critical' until his official retirement June 30.

Case, a bachelor, has been plagued by illness for about three years. He has myeloma, which attacks the bone marrow. Early in April he fell during a visit to Las Vegas, Nev., and broke his hip. After spending about six weeks in the hospital, he returned to Raleigh and was able to get about on crutches.

Close friends said his condition began to decline about two weeks ago.

Case came to State in 1946 and began the job of molding the Wolfpack into a basketball power. In 18 full seasons his teams won 378 games and lost 133. In all, he coached high school and college teams for 47 years, compiling a record of 1,161 victories and 214 losses.

Case founded the Dixie Classic in 1949, which became one of the nation's leading Christmas holiday tournaments before it was discontinued a few years ago.

He was the only Atlantic Coast Conference coach ever to win three successive championships, in 1954, '55 and '56. He had planned to remain on as head coach during the last season, but the emotional tension and excitement of coaching proved too much for him.

"But," he added, "there was no chance of his recovery without the operation and only slight with it."

19 Year Tenure
Case stepped down as head coach last Dec. 7 after a 19-year tenure at N.C. State and was succeeded by Press Maravich. He remained on the staff, however, in an advisory capacity

Green capped the rally with a three-run homer.

Lomborg boosted his record to 6-10 and knocked in the deciding run with a single in the Red Sox' two-run second inning.

Rico Petrocelli singled home the first run and Tom Tresh's throwing error in the fifth, after singles by Frank Malzone and Carl Yastrzemski, accounted for the other.

Ken Hamlin smacked two homers and Woodie Held one, giving Ortega plenty of working room en route to his 10th victory. The ex-Dodger is the fourth AL pitcher to win 10 games. He has lost eight. Hamlin, who had driven in only eight runs, knocked in four with his second and third homers of the year.

Hall's Two-Run Single
Harmon Killebrew's two-run homer and a two-run single by Jimmie Hall helped Perry out-pitch Los Angeles ace Dean Chance, who has lost six of 12 decisions. Killebrew smashed his 17th homer in the first inning and Hall came through in the seventh.

Stange, 5-2, extended his career hex over Baltimore to nine victories in 11 decisions and ran his scoreless string against the Orioles to 24 innings. Chuck Hinton hit a two-run homer in Cleveland's three-run first-inning burst against loser Steve Barber and touched off a two-run rally in the sixth with a double.

Boosted Record to 6-10
The last-place Athletics, who have won five of their last six, bunched all their runs in the seventh inning, breaking up a scoreless duel between Roland Sheldon and Chicago's Joe Horlen. Bill Bryan singled the first, two KC runs across and Dick

Chuck, Syl Bayer Post 69s at Reid; Larson Duo Wins Father-Son Crown

A pair of 2-under par 69s by the Bayer brothers, Chuck and Syl, and a hole-in-1 grabbed the spotlight at the Reid Municipal Golf Course over the weekend.

The ace shooter was Keith Tikken, who holed his 3-iron teeshot on the 195-yard second hole Saturday.

Syl Bayer toured Reid's par 35 front side in regulation before dipping two shots under the card on the par 36 back nine. Brother Chuck, who also posted a 74, carved out 1-under nines of 34 and 35 on the way to his 69.

Jim Hulsizer, runnerup to Al Baerenwald in the 1964 Appleton City Tournament, authored an even-par 71 on nines of 37-34. The diminutive southpaw also recorded a pair of 75s.

Other honor scores were Dennis Babb, 72; Bob Duszak, 73; Rich O'Brien, 76; Don Sprague, Jack Abbits and Larry Booth, 77; Pete Zanzig and Bill Wachtendonk, 78 and Gerald (Babe) Bayer and Elmer Vandenberg, 79.

The top three prizes in the weekend's special events competition went to Gordon Hendrickson, Don Siebers and Fran Williamson, respectively.

Other winners were Frank Briske, Ray Miller, Del Schuh, Chuck Chapman, Chuck Reiter, Harry Hendrickson, Don Maas, Bill Mann, Joe Hatostek, Pete Krueger and Nick Kern.

Frans and Jim Larson, father and son respectively, successfully defended their 1964 championship in Butte des Morts Golf Club's Father-Son Tournament. The Larsons posted a net 71 for a 1-shot victory.

Placing second to the Larsons were R. A. and Bobby Martin, R. W. and Rick Martinek, Bob and Jim Weyenberg, Syl M. and Tom Timmers and H. D. and "Skip" MacDonald with net 72s.

Pat and Pat Toal won the Calaway handicap flight with a net 71. John and Don Hayes were second with 73, while Bob and Bob Chase, Don and Don Jabas and Cliff and Bill Wiedner finished third with 74s.

Wally Weber and Jim Hayes teamed to win the other flight title with a net of 73.

R. A. (Bob) Martin captured scoring honors at BDM with an even par 70. Martin clipped one stroke off the par 35 front side but slid to 1-over 36 on the incoming nine. Martin also posted a 74.

John Lindberg garnered runner-up laurels with a 3-over 73. Other top efforts were Gene Garvey, Neil Collins and Jim Rudolf, 74; Pete Irwin and Tom Gustman, 76; Clarence Kramlich and Tom Timmers, 77; Otto Lieber, Gene Garvey and Bob Stehr, 78 and Bill Schleisner, Don Jabas, Terry Galvin and Bob Stehr, 79.

Tom Hadley matched the par 72 card and also posted a 74 to head the scoring parade at the Ridgeway Country Club. Harley Loker, Herb Stinski and Dick Spangenberg shared the runner-up honors with 74s.

Other sub-80 shooters were Ray Doell, 75 and 78; Connie Verbrick, 79; Eddie Verbrick, 75 and 77; Elmer Selig, 75; Bob Sullivan, 79; Bert Huus, 79; Ben Kluba, 77; Dale Howe, 77 and Monty Luka, 77.

Bob Barlament's 7-over par 77 was the top effort at the Riverview Country Club over the weekend.

Men's Guest Day activities featured 17 winners in the Blind Bogey tourney. Cy Rachie dropped his tee-shot within a foot of the pin on the second hole and Paul Tepper captured the "closest" honors on the eighth hole, leaving his tee-shot six feet from the cup.

Since Jones won the longest drive on No. 9 with a 270-yard clout.

David Weryley authored nines of 36-37 en route to a 2-over par 73 at Bridgewood. Skip Schaefer and Brian Cannon recorded a golfing oddity by scoring eagle duces on the 290-yard third hole while playing in the same group. Both finished with 9-hole tallies of 38.

Ailing Frank Robinson Plays, But Reds' Troubles Continue

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Ailing Frank Robinson took his place in the line-up Monday night and got a hit, but the injury-plagued Cincinnati Reds still suffered a 3-1 defeat at the hands of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The slugging outfielder has been undergoing treatment for a viral condition and Cincinnati fans were rocked by reports he might be out for the season with mononucleosis.

Robinson himself said he had been surprised at the headlines. "I mentioned it casually," he said "and expected to see maybe a line or two in the paper. When I finally got hold of a paper it was in the headlines."

"Well, I had what you had too, but when I had it they called it a slump," remarked John Edwards, the Reds' catcher, and other teammates had similar things to say. Robinson has been off his hitting pace for sometime.

But Robinson's name is only one on the Reds' casualty list which also includes pitchers Jim Maloney and Gerry Arrigo, first baseman Gordon Coleman and catcher Don Pavletich.

Maloney strained a muscle in his pitching arm Sunday and Arrigo is also suffering from a virus. Coleman pulled a muscle in his right side while batting in Sunday's doubleheader.

Pavletich also is recovering from a pulled muscle and has not seen any action since July 10.

Coleman's bat was missed Monday night as Pittsburgh veteran Vernon Law scattered six hits and evened his record at 9-9.

Bloop Single, Error Costly to Fox Cities '9'

inning when Witkowski opened with a walk. Hickerson's single through the hole at second advanced Witkowski to third, from where he scored on Curt Motton's force-out of Hickerson.

The Cedar Rapids' uprising in the second concluded the night's scoring, thanks to Jim Rouse, the Foxes' burly catcher.

In the Cedar Rapids' fifth, Enrique Rivera doubled and advanced on a wild pitch. Rivera attempted to score on Nat Colbert's fly to Hill in right, but Hill threw a strike to Rouse, who blocked Rivera's path to the plate and made the putout. Rivera, incidentally, was shaken up on the play and removed from the game.

Another Near-Tally

The Cardinals' sixth produced another near-tally as Deras, on third, and Davis, on first, attempted a double steal. Rouse rifled a peg to John Sepich at second, and the rangy second sacker returned the compliment as Rouse nailed Deras at the plate.

Foxes' hurlers Ted Miller, who went seven innings, and reliever Derral Wilkerson turned in highly creditable performances, but fell just short of the Cards' Mike Buiat, who scattered seven singles.

Miller was tagged with the loss, his fifth in eight decisions, but yielded only one earned run Wilkerson, after walking the first man he faced, fanned three in two near-perfect innings of relief.

Sepich and Bob Connolly accounted for four of the Foxes' hits, each with two.

Spahn Will Aid Pennant Drive

Contract Terms With Giants Are Not Disclosed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Manager Herman Franks looks to the 44-year-old arm of Warren Spahn to give his San Francisco Giants a winning boost in the National League baseball race.

Franks, freshman pilot who last Saturday was awarded a new contract through 1966, went to bat to get the veteran left-hander who was cut loose by the New York Mets a week ago. At that time some Giants officials seemed dubious.

"I just have a feeling he'll be a tremendous help for us," the manager declared after the Giants announced they had reached a salary agreement with Spahn and that the pitcher will report Wednesday.

Great Career

In the twilight of his great major league career, Spahn says he still is in excellent physical shape and his arm feels good, adding, "I think I can help the Giants win the pennant. I am confident I can still pitch nine innings, but I'm ready to do anything the manager wants me to."

Twins' Mele Draws 5-Day Suspension, Gets $500 Fine

Minnesota Manager Says He Feels Stiff Penalty Is Unfair

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Manager Sam Mele, waiting out a five-day suspension imposed after his altercation Sunday with umpire Bill Valentine, had his ruffled feelings soothed Monday night when his American League-leading Minnesota Twins whipped the Los Angeles Angels 5-2.

"They didn't seem to miss me, did they?" Mele said after viewing the game from Twins' President Calvin Griffith's booth in the Metropolitan Stadium pressbox.

"Maybe I should sit up here all the time."

Mele, who earlier Monday said he felt league President Joe Cronin's punishment of the suspension and a $500 fine was unfair, was in a considerably more jovial mood after the Twins won to protect their 3½-game American League lead.

Directed Team

Coach Hal Naragon directed the Twins from the dugout, and will serve as acting manager until Mele can return to the field at Baltimore Saturday night.

"I have every confidence in Hal's ability," Mele said. "I chose Naragon because he has respect of the players, and he thinks a lot like I do."

Naragon said he had little to do with the victory, and added: "We'll go right on doing things just like Sam does them. He's the manager and he's got this club in first place."

Mele said he wasn't just a spectator for Monday night's game.

"I took some notes on some of the guys," he said. "I don't know whether you can see better up in the pressbox, but you get a different perspective. You can see better how the players are positioning themselves in the field, for one thing."

First Suspension

Mele said Monday he wants to discuss his fine and suspension with Cronin, but admitted, "I know it won't change anything. I just want to get some things off my chest."

Cronin confirmed this, saying at Dearborn, Mich., "I'm always glad to talk with him, but I won't change my mind. I feel the action was fair. There was no punch, but there definitely had been pushing."

It not only was Mele's first suspension, but also his first fine in four years as Minnesota manager.

"I didn't think I deserved that much penalty for two reasons," Mele said. "First, the way my ball player was treated and, second, because we're in a pennant race."

"The umpires have to have respect, but they've got to respect my ball players, too."

There were no arguments Monday night. Valentine worked at third base and had no close decisions.

Fan Sneaks Into Park, Pays for It Years Later

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — General Manager Dave Steele of the Portland Beavers baseball club of the Pacific Coast League has the last word in paid attendance. He received a dollar bill in the mail recently attached to this note: "Enclosed find $1 for payment of illegal entry into stadium several years ago."

Collect Stones From the Beach and Make a Frog

By CAPPY DICK
Eight stones collected at a beach where wave action has worn them smooth are needed to make the funny frog in Figures 2 and 3. It is a novelty made by mixing fine sand with some of the glue and applying this to the stones. As the mixture dries, a better bonding surface will have been provided than would be possible with glue alone.
When the glue has dried, give the frog one or two coats of shellac or varnish.
Wednesday's Missing-vowels puzzle contest! Win a prize! (Copyright, 1965)

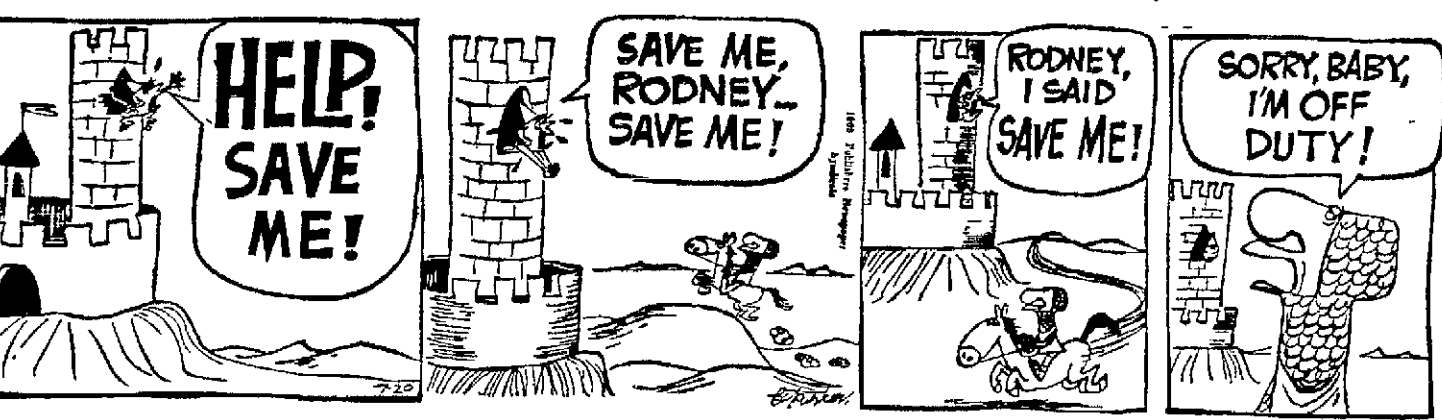

Assemble the stones with glue. As shown in Figure 1, you will need an egg-shaped stone for the body, a much smaller one of similar shape for the frog's head, four stones for the legs and

Drysdale Notches 15th Triumph as Dodgers Roll to 8-3 Decision

Pirates' Vern Law Checks Reds on 4-Hitter, 3-1

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Ken Johnson recorded Milwaukee's first shutout of the season Monday night as the Braves whipped the New York Mets 6-0 for their seventh straight victory and moved into third place in the National League.

The 32-year-old right-hander has been a different person since Houston traded him to Milwaukee for outfielder Lee Maye last May 23.

While with the Astros this season, Johnson posted a 3-2 record with a 4.15 earned run average and no complete games in eight starts.

His triumph over the Mets was his fourth straight and gave him a 7-2 record with the Braves. In that time he has compiled a 2.79 ERA, completed five of 12 starts and defeated seven of the other nine teams in the league.

In other NL games Monday, Los Angeles knocked off Houston 8-3, Pittsburgh trimmed Cincinnati 3-1, Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 5-2 and Chicago downed San Francisco 6-2.

Four Home Runs

Johnson was supported in his seven-hitter by four home runs — Ed Mathews' 20th, Hank Aaron's 18th, Joe Torre's 18th and Felipe Alou's 15th. The defeat was the Mets' ninth straight and halted their nine-game Monday winning streak. They hadn't lost on a Monday since opening day.

Don Drysdale scattered nine hits, bringing his record to 15-8 while also collecting a run-scoring single and a double. Los Angeles snapped a 3-3 tie with a five-run outburst in the sixth inning, Lou Johnson scoring the first run on a wild pickoff throw by Houston starter Don Nottbart.

Vernon Law stopped Cincinnati on four hits, and six Pirates each rapped two hits. Donn Clendenon's fourth-inning home run broke a 1-1 deadlock, and Pittsburgh added a run in the eighth on consecutive singles by Roberto Clemente, Clendenon and Bill Mazeroski.

Short Scattered Seven
Philadelphia downed St. Louis as Chris Short scattered seven hits for his 11th victory against seven losses. Dick Stuart and Alex Johnson each knocked in two Phillie runs.

Chicago's Dick Ellsworth also won his 11th game — he has lost five — after holding San Francisco hitless through five innings and driving in two runs with a triple. Ellsworth, however, needed ninth-inning relief help from Ted Abernathy.

Rusk Likes Being Quiet Secretary

Rumors Persist That Johnson Will Move
Him to Different Post

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Can you remember anything Secretary of State Dean Rusk ever said except for that "eyeball to eyeball" bit about the Cuban missile crisis?

Probably not. And that in itself is one of the best commentaries on how he runs his job. He is one of the most anonymous secretaries of state this country ever had. He wants it that way.

Nevertheless, for a man who says so little memorable or controversial, it's odd how rumors keep popping up that President Johnson, who inherited him from President John F. Kennedy, is going to replace him.

There was one after Johnson won the presidency on his own in the 1964 election. There were rumors after that. There was one last week. There was another, coming out of Congress, Monday.

Awkward Position

This one has Johnson appointing Rusk U.S. ambassador to the United Nations to succeed the late Adlai E. Stevenson, but if Johnson has any such thought he put himself in an awkward position to do anything about it.

Last week, the day before Stevenson died, Johnson was asked about the rumor going around then that he planned to get rid of Rusk. The President told the questioner:

"I think you do a great damage and a great disservice to one of the most able and most competent and most dedicated men I have ever known, Secretary Rusk. He sits to my right in the Cabinet room. He ranks first in Cabinet and he ranks first with me."

On the face of it that would seem the best piece of job insurance Rusk could get. Monday's rumor had Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara succeeding Rusk if Rusk took Stevenson's place.

Johnson Pleased

But Johnson seems immensely pleased with both men in the jobs they have. Only three weeks after taking office in 1963 Johnson said of McNamara:

"This country never had an 'abler or more dedicated secretary of defense and I have known them all." At another time Johnson said McNamara "represents the very best in America."

Since Rusk and McNamara get along, there's no apparent rivalry or bickering between them but there is a difference.

McNamara, highly aggressive, has antagonized some members of Congress, especially in wanting to save money by shutting down government installations in some congressional districts.

His self-assurance irks some people, too. He says that when Kennedy gave him the defense job he chose an "active role providing aggressive leadership" and it "represents my own philosophy of management."

Acknowledged Whiz
He is an acknowledged whiz on facts, figures and managing the whole defense set-up. It's a lot more difficult to make an appraisal of Rusk. Highly intelligent, amazingly self-effacing, he almost always says the usual.

His best-remembered statement came in talking about the head-on American-Russian showdown over Cuban missiles in 1962. Rusk said the two countries were "eyeball to eyeball and I think the other fellow blinked."

Rusk, unlike McNamara, avoids public clashes almost totally. Therefore, since he is obvious and usual in public, his great value to Johnson must come in his contributions behind closed doors.

One thing is sure: he's calm and he is a master in his field of foreign affairs, which means he's an expert technician. This would seem to make him to order for Johnson and Kennedy.

Both insisted on doing the talking on big problems. Thus Rusk is a switch from his two most famous predecessors of the past 15 years: Secretaries of State Dean Acheson and John Foster Dulles.

Both were always in hot water from talking.

Rival Wheat Support Bills Hinge On Cost of Bread to Consumers

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—The politics-loaded issue of the price of bread to tens of millions of consumers is at the bottom of the torrid wrangling over the Johnson administration's omnibus farm price support bill. Under this generally little-noticed multi-billion dollar measure affecting every major segment of agriculture, wheat growers would get a $150-million-a-year increase in price support subsidies—by hiking the so-called "users' tax" on millers and other domestic wheat buyers. Opponents claim this would boost the price of bread two cents a loaf. A Republican proposal, sponsored by Rep. Albert Quie, Minn., would give wheat growers a $250 million increase in price supports—with the additional subsidy money coming from the general funds of the Treasury. Quie contends this would entail a raise in bread costs. Strikingly indicative of the tense battling over this politics-charged issue is that the 36-man, real author of the controversial omnibus farm measure in about a month. Meanwhile, both sides are furiously at it hammer-and-tongs, privately and publicly, to win backing. Both sides favor boosting wheat price supports. They differ sharply on how much and how to do it. The administration's plan calls for raising the subsidy on domestically consumed wheat $250 million. Funds for that would be obtained by increasing the "users' tax"—on millers and other domestic wheat purchasers. But this $250 million increase would be offset by eliminating entirely $100 million in price supports on grain sold abroad. Thus, net gain to the growers would be $150 million. Quie proposes to boost the domestic price supports by $150 million—and to continue unchanged the present $100 million subsidy on exported wheat. That would provide the farmers with a $250 million income gain against the Johnson administration's $150 million. Also, Quie holds, consumers would not be directly affected, as the money to pay for his plan would come from the Treasury instead of raising the domestic wheat "users' tax". Freeman sardonically pooh-poohs the bread issue. In a Minnesota speech he declared: "While it is natural to associate bread with the food needs of low income and needy families, those who would exploit this association for their own purposes need to be reminded that this is a different world for the poor than when Marie Antoinette advised that they eat cake. Low income and no income families today receive substantially improved diets through the enlarged (federal) direct food distribution program and the expanding food stamp program. Labor Law Showdown House Democratic leaders have told AFL-CIO chiefs that the administration's bill to repeal Section 14 (b), empowering states to enact right-to-work laws, is slated to be brought before the full House July 26. Outcome of that showdown is a toss-up. Both sides are claiming victory, but neither is certain what will happen. Laborites are still grumbling over the President's failure to mention their measure among the important bills he listed in his speech several weeks ago at the $1 million fund-raising dinner in Washington for the Senate and House Democratic Campaign Committees. Women newspaper friends of Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, whip-smart press secretary of Mrs. Lady Bird Johnson, are vigorously boosting her for permanent White House press secretary—if and when acting secretary Bill Moyers relinquishes the job. It's long been no secret that Mrs. "Liz" Carpenter would like to be the first woman White House press secretary. A Texan and one-time Washington correspondent, she considers herself well equipped for the place.

Migrant Admits Shooting Youth Near Montello

Marquette Sheriff To Question Trio Held at El Paso

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A migrant farm worker has admitted the shooting of a Wisconsin youth slain along a lonely rural highway, police said today.

Three migrant workers were being held here, awaiting arrival of Wisconsin authorities, while three other men were still being sought.

Police said Rogelio B. Buhat, 29, signed a statement admitting the shooting of Peter Stewart, 20, Montello, Wis.

Stewart was found lying fatally wounded beside his car on Highway 23 west of Montello late Friday night. He had been shot three times, once in the face and twice in the back.

Held with Buhat were Edward Sava, 23, and Ricardo Martinez Pastor, 20.

The three were seized Monday by El Paso police maintaining surveillance at the home of Sava's parents. Buhat and Pastor listed Los Angeles addresses. Police said all three were Filipinos.

Marquette County Dist. Atty. Donn Dahlke said warrants were signed by County Judge J. K. Callahan charging the men with first degree murder. Sheriff Arden Atkinson and Columbia County Detective Capt. Robert Hamel left today for Texas with the warrants. They planned to drive to Chicago and take a plane from there to El Paso.

El Paso police said the three told them they had been in Wisconsin about two weeks and had been staying at a farm labor camp near Montello.

Police quoted them as saying they were driving down a road when they came upon an argument involving Stewart and three other men. The shooting followed.

.22 Revolver
Stewart was shot with a .22 caliber revolver, investigators said.

Officers said the three first denied any knowledge of the shooting.

They said the men did not resist when apprehended.

Buhat, Sava and Pastor were among four persons sought after Wisconsin authorities said they failed to appear for work Saturday at a farm in the Montello area.

Just before the slaying Stewart had driven home a 16-year-old girl, Jennifer Norton, who said migrant workers were bothering her.

In Wisconsin, investigators said a swarthy-complexioned man reportedly bought .22 caliber bullets at approximately the same time Friday night.

An Oxford, Wis., couple, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Goodhue, told authorities they saw Stewart's car stopped between two other vehicles on the highway. They said they heard a scream and three shots. The Goodhues said the other persons jumped in their two cars and sped away.

A 10-year-old car described by Goodhue resembled the description of the car which a farm operator said was driven by the temporary workers who did not report Saturday.

Mariner About Finished With Picture Relays

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Mariner 4 forged well into the homestretch today in relaying to earth a possible 21 photographs of Mars — pictures of what some scientists said could be vegetation.

Jet Propulsion Laboratory Director William H. Pickering said the rest of the Mars pictures would not be made public for "a matter of weeks" after the last picture has been received next Saturday.

The path of Mariner 4's fly-by past Mars last Wednesday indicated its eighth and subsequent pictures, taken less than 8,000 miles from Mars, might show dark areas which some experts think could be some form of plant life — though one unknown on earth.

250 Are Expected to Attend 'Little People's' Convention

GLOUCESTER, N.J. (AP)—Did you ever visit a hotel and find the shower spigots too high?

Or have you tried to make a telephone call and found the mouthpiece too far above the floor?

Most likely not. But then, you're probably not one of the "little people."

Some 250 persons were expected today for the seventh annual convention of Little People of America Inc.

The only requisite for admission to the organization is that the applicant be less than 4 feet, 11 inches tall.

1,800 Members

The group has about 1,800 members "and there are probably many more in the United States (who qualify) but we haven't heard of them," said a spokesman.

"We have problems that normal people don't have," said George Baehm III of New York City. "At these annual conventions we are able to discuss those problems in addition to introducing little people to other little people."

"Had I not gone to the convention in North Carolina in 1962," said the 4-foot tall Baehm, "I'd not have met my wife." Baehm's wife, Christine or "Tina," is 3-foot-11.

Difficult Problem

Baehm, who works for his family's Baehm Container Co., said among the problems facing little people is employment.

"As the public is becoming adjusted to our size," he said, "more opportunities arise."

Very few of Little People of America's members are employed in show business, he said. They are active in "almost every occupation you can think of."

Probably the biggest problem facing them is simply that the world is designed for tall people.

Pickets Attacked

Bogalusa Negroes Accelerate Tests

BOGALUSA, La. (AP)—Civil rights forces step up public accommodation tests, picketing and a march today following Justice Department action with suits to halt police officials and the Ku Klux Klan from interfering with demonstrators.

A. Z. Young, president of the Bogalusa Voters League, told a rally Monday night of the plans for wide-scale public accommodation tests and demonstrations.

He said that Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. John Doar, on a peace-making mission to the racially torn town, "had brought something to town that we had lost."

Young said, "We had lost confidence in the federal government—the FBI."

KKK Strong

"At one time, we thought anything could be solved by the FBI. But these Kluxers in Bogalusa were so strong that they had the FBI eating out of their hands."

Young did not elaborate after making the comment at the mass rally.

Doar, who heads the civil rights division of the Justice Department, filed suits in U.S. District Court at New Orleans Monday to halt city police officials and the KKK from interfering with civil rights demonstrators.

He also asked that Public Safety Commissioner Arnold Spiers and Police Chief Claxton Knight be held in contempt. Doar was on hand Saturday when white bystanders attacked a group of biracial pickets outside a shopping center about a block from the City Hall. There were no city police on duty there.

Reasonable Protection

Doar said Spiers and Knight had failed to provide reasonable protection for demonstrators.

Goldberg Is Named Ambassador to U.N.

Senate Group May Split on Redistricting

Dirksen Amendment Lets States Decide On Reapportionment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen today carries his fight for a constitutional amendment on legislative reapportionment to the apparently equally divided Senate Judiciary Committee.

Barring last-minute shifts in position, the prospects pointed to an 8-8 tie vote. This would deny Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, the majority support he needs to bring the issue before the Senate itself.

Conceding the possibility of such an outcome, Dirksen reiterated to reporters his determination to get Senate action on the proposed amendment on which President Johnson has made no public statement but which Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is actively fighting.

'I'm Determined'

"I am a determined man," Dirksen told reporters. He would not indicate how he would overcome a committee setback. But he is at liberty any time to move to substitute the proposal for any measure now on the Senate calendar.

Dirksen wouldn't speculate whether a threatened filibuster by liberal opponents of the reapportionment proposal would delay the Labor Day adjournment of Congress he and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield are seeking.

Dirksen and Mansfield expect to take up that matter at a meeting Thursday or Friday with Johnson. The Republican leader observed that up to this point Johnson has given no indication he would be willing to let some of his legislative proposals go over until next year's session.

Parts Can Go Over

Mansfield told a Democratic conference Monday he believes parts of the program can go over.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., apparently destroyed Dirksen's chances for a favorable committee vote on the Illinois senator's proposed reapportionment amendment when he offered a revised version of it.

Javits announced that if his substitute is rejected, he will vote against Dirksen's version in committee.

Both the Dirksen and Javits proposals would permit the voters of each state to decide whether they want one house of their legislature apportioned on other than the population basis ordered by the Supreme Court in its one-man, one-vote decision.

Rule of Law Over World Is Goal Set by Justice Replacing Adlai Stevenson

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson named Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg today to be the new U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

In a quickly arranged ceremony in the White House rose garden, the President, with Goldberg at his side, named his choice to succeed the late Adlai E. Stevenson.

Goldberg said the message of Adlai Stevenson to the world

must continue — man's ancient supplication to "grant us peace."

Rule of Law

And he promised to attempt to bring "the rule of law to relations between the various nations — it is that or doom and we all know that," Goldberg said.

The selection came as a distinct surprise. Speculation had centered on the idea of a Cabinet reshuffle.

Switch Possible

In that event, the informants said, Johnson might switch Secretary Robert S. McNamara from the Defense Department to the State Department, succeeding Rusk. There also has been some talk here that if the defense post became vacant, the assignment might go to either McGeorge Bundy, Johnson's assistant for international security affairs, or to Cyrus Vance.

U.S. Denies Charges of Aerial Spying

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department is investigating French charges of aerial espionage stemming from the flight of an American plane. It says "there was no intent to overfly any prohibited area in France."

Other than that, the Pentagon was keeping mum about the incident.

France accused the United States Monday of photographing the site where enriched uranium is produced for its nuclear weapons.

PARIS (AP)—French newspapers showed only scant interest today in Defense Ministry charges that a U.S. plane took unauthorized aerial photographs of France's largest nuclear plant.

The Gaullist newspaper La Nation said the ministry believes the case is closed.

McNamara States Deterioration Is Seen in Viet Nam

Apparent Attempt on Life Of Maxwell Taylor Is Foiled

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said today the Vietnamese situation has deteriorated in many aspects in the last 15 months, but the picture is not all black. Then he headed home from his five-day survey to report to President Johnson.

McNamara said nothing in a news conference statement about expectations that this report will form the basis for a sizable increase in U.S. military strength in Viet Nam.

Assassination Attempted
An apparent attempt to assassinate U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, a savage battle at a garrison post near the Cambodian frontier and a second Viet Cong attack on the U.S. 1st Infantry Division's 2nd Brigade at Bien Hoa were among highlights of the day.

Four suspects, including two boys, were reported arrested after discovery and disarming of a Claymore bomb planted at the entrance of a stadium where Taylor and senior Vietnamese officials were attending a Unity Day celebration.

Returning to Washington with McNamara were Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Ambassador-designate Henry Cabot Lodge, who is to relieve Taylor in mid-August.

Several Persons Missing

Parts of Missouri Hit By Heavy Rain, Floods

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roaring floodwaters created by rains of more than 12 inches over portions of northwest and west central Missouri swept through a number of small towns north and east of Kansas City today.

Several persons were reported lost or missing in the flood waters overnight in the Smithville and Holden areas. Homes were washed off their foundations at Smithville and Edgerton and at least two house trailers were washed away at Riverside.

The Clay County sheriff's office said rescue crews in boats were pulling stranded residents of the community of Mosby to safety from trees and rooftops.

Roads Inundated

A number of roads throughout the area were under water and several bridges have been washed out.

Hardest hit were the valleys of the Little Platte and Fishing River, blanketed by massive thunderstorms that began Monday and continued through the night. The Weather Bureau said the rain is expected to continue intermittently through tonight.

The Clay County sheriff's office said a boat capsized with six persons along U.S. 69 in Smithville and only one person was known to have been rescued.

Boat Overturned

The Missouri Highway Patrol said the occupants of a car caught in high water from Blackwater Creek near Holden were unaccounted for and at least two persons were missing from a boat that overturned while trying to reach the car.

Residents of Tracy, Missouri City and Mosby were evacuated during the night.

The patrol said Edgerton, about 30 miles northwest of Kansas City, was completely isolated by the flooding Blackwater Creek and Platte River. Power and telephone service in the community was disrupted.

The Little Platte at Smithville was almost 15 feet above flood stage, or about four feet higher than the previous record set in June, 1964, when $1 million damage was done.

Say Patronage Influence Used In Post Office

Minneapolis Paper Claims Solons Made Recommendations

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Minneapolis Tribune said Friday that area summer "youth opportunity" jobs in the Post Office Department were distributed mostly by congressional patronage, rather than through the employment service method outlined by President Johnson.

The newspaper said the department hired 83 of 1,325 youths recommended by state employment services and other non-congressional sources for work in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Wisconsin.

But 208 of 319 youths recommended by Congressmen in the states were hired, the newspaper said.

Local Officials Say No Patronage

Fox Cities postal officials said today that the names of college students working for them this summer were received from the regional offices in Minneapolis.

Appleton has three students working with one more expected. Menasha has one and Neenah has two, with a third pending. There are none employed in Kaukauna and the Fox Villages.

Postmasters said the names of their summer workers had come from the regional office, and no notice was sent of congressional recommendation for any of the workers.

Officials said most of the workers applied through employment services or their college or high school.

per said. Those figures do not include 313 names submitted by Republican Reps. Melvin Laird and John Byrnes of Wisconsin. Ten of their recommended applicants were hired.

The Tribune said the Department began by allocating the jobs through Democratic congressmen but included Republicans after the newspaper made inquiries.

The paper said its statistics came from Adrian Winkel, regional postal director at Minneapolis, who wrote to Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn.

The newspaper quoted Vice President Hubert Humphrey, in an interview, as criticizing the Post Office Department's handling of the jobs, saying the department had "gotten out on a limb."

Chamber to Hear Horse Owners' Side in Park 'Open Spaces' Rift

NEW LONDON — A word on behalf of the horse owners within the city limits is expected during today's council meeting.

Ald. Byron Christian (Fifth), chairman of the judiciary committee, faced with the problem of what to do about the four-legged animals, said a delegation would attend the 8 p.m. meeting to ask why a ban on horses in Hatten Park was being pushed through the park board.

The park board has it in their power to prohibit horses in the park and has ordered signs stating that no horse may be allowed in the park.

meeting Monday night it was possible the city might have to lay out horse trails in the park.

Ald. Fred Noack (Third) stated if enough pressure was brought to bear on the council this was likely. Noack is the chairman of the park board.

Also to be brought before the council is the matter of installing blacktop on the drive into Pfeifer Park off Shawano Street. The council discussed installing blacktop on the entire roadway through Pfeifer Park when the grade of the road is completed.

High Street Plans

Director of Public Works Ray Peishsek said a meeting was scheduled for July 29 with the city and the North Western meeting.

Peishsek said 412 feet of sanitary sewer and the laterals remained to be installed in the city's portion of Division Street.

State Objects to Development Next to Lower High Cliff Park

SHERWOOD—Work on a proposed golf shop and miniature railroad depot at the Frank Schneider farm at High Cliff State Park near here has been halted by court action.

Calumet County Authorities served a writ of certiorari and a stay of construction to stop the construction which was given the go ahead when building permits were issued June 18. The writ was issued upon a request by the state attorney general's office and County Judge D.H. Sebra declared the stay of construction pending the inspection of the minutes of the board of appeals meeting at which the permits were issued.

Schneider and Robert Piedot, both of route 1, Menasha, have been trying since April to get building permits to start construction on a miniature golf course and railroad on Schneider's farm, immediately to the north and west of High Cliff Park.

Fear 'Commercialization'

First attempts to get building permits were denied in April at the request of the Wisconsin Conservation Department because it would bring too much "commercialization" into the state park area.

Attempts also were made to amend the Calumet County zoning ordinance which would permit recreation centers in areas zoned for agriculture at the same time as the initial request for building permits was made.

The requests were denied after several persons appeared before the county park commission opposing Schneider and Piedot's proposed recreational construction.

Permit Denied

When the two businessmen requested building permits for a golf house and a railroad ticket office June 3 the request was again denied.

Roland E. Miller, county zoning administrator, said the requests were denied at the advice of Dist. Atty. R. J. Schneider because of interpretation of the word public in the zoning code.

William Engler Jr., Schneider's attorney, contended the word public applied to the public use of privately owned property whereby Schneider said public referred to publicly owned land.

The dispute arose when Schneider contended he could carry on the proposed construction because, according to his interpretation of public, meaning for public use, a recreational area could be built under the existing agricultural zoning.

Appeal Granted

When the second attempt for building permits failed Schneider and Piedot appealed to the county board of adjustments and the permits were granted June 18. Members of the board—Al Hertel, Chilton; James Cullen, New Holstein; and Julius Schmidt, Sherwood—were in complete accord when they granted the permits. The opinion of the board was that after hearing the pros and cons of the request, including a letter from L. P. Voigt, state conservation director, delivered by John Franzen, opposing the granting of the permits.

New London Break-in Nets Thieves $150

NEW LONDON — A break-in at the office of Dr. S. Brian McPhail, 303 N. Water St., during the weekend netted burglars about $150.

The break-in was discovered and reported to New London police Monday morning by Dr. McPhail.

Police Chief Jack Algiers said entry was made by a back door. A filing cabinet with a small safe in it was forced open and the money taken. Algiers said it is not known what time the break-in occurred over the weekend.

Dr. McPhail Monday said he left the office about 12:30 p.m. Saturday. The cleaning woman was in Sunday, but she did not notice anything out of place, he reported.

New London Aldermen Protest

NEW LONDON — Prospects for an enlarged police department headquarters suffered a setback Monday at the committee meeting of the New London Council.

Three aldermen, Gilbert Kroll (1st), Jerome Zaig, (1st), and Robert Rathel (2nd), opposed purchase of the Miles Lumber Co. building on S. Pearl and N. Water Streets as a police station. They said it would take much study and persuasion before they could see spending taxpayers money for the building.

Some council members said they did not believe added space is necessary. They cited Shawano and Clintonville as having smaller quarters for their police departments and equally cramped conditions.

The police and fire commission and the public property committee met on the purchase of the building about a month ago.

Cite Needs

Those groups cited the need of more room for proper operation of the nine-man department. The department is housed in three small adjoining rooms and does not have a place for interrogation of prisoners, room for juveniles or female prisoners and no office for the police chief.

The council mentioned a figure of about $29,000 for the 4,100 square foot building. The building is of brick and concrete block structure and has three partitioned rooms built onto the south end which would be adequate for office use.

Other Sites

Other properties which might be available as sites for use were mentioned by the council. They did not specify any building.

Two buildings which have been mentioned in previous discussions have been the building which houses Kawell Motors and the Zaig Building, occupied by Dr. F. J. Pfeifers. The Pfeifer building frequently has been mentioned as an office for the city clerk and city treasurer. Neither is vacant at this time.

Fairmont Foods Safe Broken Open; Cash Totaled $600

About $2,800 in checks and cash were taken sometime Sunday night during a break-in at Fairmont Foods Co., 210 N. Perkins St., in the Town of Grand Chute.

Burglars entered the building, apparently through a ventilation shaft in the roof, and broke into the office safe. Company officials said the checks were non-negotiable, but that about $600 in cash was missing.

Dial Knocked Off

Outagamie County Undersheriff Norbert Marx said the safe-cracking job "looked like it was done by professionals." The dial of the safe was knocked off in order to force the door open. The safe was described as a wreck.

Fingerprints were found on the safe and are being traced. In addition to the checks and cash, a small radio was reported missing by Fairmont officials.

Chilton School Electors to Vote on $200,000 Addition

CHILTON — A resolution for borrowing $200,000 from the budget pending voters' approval Monday.

A petition concerning the election of school board officials at the spring election which was submitted to the board clerk, will also be discussed. Atty. Robert Lutz will be present to explain this method to the electors.

If approved, board members will be elected the first Tuesday in April. It would be up to the school district to supply ballots for the election to all voting municipalities and to run the election if no municipal election is scheduled.

Other business includes an election to fill the positions held by Director G. G. Bloomer, and approval of the tax clerk's L. Larson, whose term expires this year. State-qualified valuation will result. The proposed rate of $16.99 will produce $535,048 in local taxes prior to the annual meeting, when applied against the new $31,490,600 equalized valuation. The proposed building expense, School.

The building proposal calls for a new library-study hall and science laboratories. It was presented for public discussion at a June 28 informational meeting.

Supt. A. W. Gordon explained that present facilities are no longer adequate because of increasing enrollment.

Also up for approval will be the $866,198 budget for the 1965-66 school year. If it wins the approval of the electors a tax increase of $2.6 per $1,000 of equalized valuation will result. The proposed rate of $16.99 will produce $535,048 in local taxes prior to the annual meeting, when applied against the new $31,490,600 equalized valuation. The proposed building expense, School.

1963 Resolution Gives Property to School if Needed

NEW LONDON — Whether Washington Street belongs to the school or city was brought before the city council Monday and the legal aspects puzzled aldermen as much as the board of education three weeks ago.

In quoting from a resolution passed in February, 1963, Ald. Matt Burton, (5th) said the street (which runs from Oshkosh Street to Werner-Allen Road past the present school) would be vacated by the city if needed for building purposes by the school district.

He believed the street never was the property of the school district because of this restriction.

Gilbert Kroll, council president, did not agree with this. He thought that the city had legally turned the street over to the school and they wanted to give it back because of impending repairs and curb and gutter work.

The matter was brought up at the July 1 reorganization meeting of the board of education. The 708 foot portion of the

Richard Van Sistine, Maurice Lewis Named To City Commissions

Mitchell Makes Appointments To Fire-Police, Planning Units

Major appointments to two Appleton commissions were announced today by Mayor Clarence Mitchell.

Van Sistine Lewis

They are:
—Richard Van Sistine, 1815 S. Carpenter St., to the fire and police commission for a term expiring in May, 1969.

—Maurice Lewis, 2003 N. Racine St., the city plan commission, his term ending in May, 1968.

Both men are prominent Appleton business and civic

Plan Commission

Van Sistine, who has been a member of the plan commission for the past four years, is local manager of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. Lewis is manager of the gas division of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co.

The appointments are subject to confirmation by the common council which holds its regular meeting Wednesday night. Both positions are non-salaried.

"I think the city government is most fortunate that these two men are willing to serve in their respective positions," Mayor Mitchell said when announcing the appointments.

Van Sistine will be filling the unexpired term of Helm Hussner on the fire and police commission. Hussner, who served on the commission for several years, resigned recently.

Since 1957

A native of DePere, Van Sistine has been the telephone company manager here since 1957. In addition to serving on several community projects and being active in several organizations, Van Sistine is also a past president of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce.

He is resigning from the plan commission to accept the fire-police appointment.

Lewis will be filling Van Sistine's unexpired term on the plan commission. He is a native of Brokaw and has lived in Appleton since 1922, joining the power company in 1926. Promoted to various positions, he became manager of the gas division of Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. in 1952.

He also is active in community affairs and various organizations, and serves on the city's utilities construction coordinating committee. As an executive member of the power company staff, Lewis has been active in utility planning in conjunction with the city's rapid growth.

Survey Shows

Camps Lacking Good Program for Land Use

Lack of good land use practices in youth camps operating in the eight-county area of the Wolf River basin was revealed today by the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission. "Many camps have no long-range plan for soil, trees and water and far too much emphasis is being placed on recreation for today alone," the report stated. "Many camp budgets include several new boats or other recreational items, but nothing toward equipment to prune a pine plantation or tools to thin a hardwood stand or even materials to be used to stop erosion from washing good topsoil into the lake."

Encouraging Note

On the encouraging side, the report noted most of the 26 camps which responded to the questionnaire were very interested in ways they could develop better land use techniques in their summer camp sessions.

The subcommittee on recreation of the forestry advisory committee developed the questionnaire which was sent to 37 camps in the Wolf River basin, including Boy and Girl Scouts, church camps, 4-H camps and other organizations. Purpose of the survey was to determine to what degree good land use is being practiced in the camps and what kind of programs are being used to train the leaders of tomorrow in proper land management plans.

Responses were received from 26 of the 27 camps surveyed. The recreation subcommittee met in Antigo earlier this month to tabulate questionnaire results and develop initial plans to help camp directors improve their land use program.

One-Day Institute

Plans now are being developed for a one-day land use workshop sometime during June of 1966 in the southern portion of the basin. Camp leaders will be encouraged to attend the workshop and exchange ideas of good land use to practice in their own camp programs.

"The youth today must be ready to face the future with the realization that much of our recreation in the future depends on how they use our land, water and forests today," the report concluded.

Airplane Council of the Aerospace Industries Association of America, Inc., tells of another specific example.

Manchester, N. H., he said "at first did not recognize the importance of its airport to the future development of the area. Several years ago the Marina Electric Co. required a new plant and insisted upon an airport location."

"Not being able to use the Manchester Airport because of its occupancy by the Air Force, Marian Electric negotiated for property at Concord Airport, Concord, N.H.

"This," Spence said, "created a municipal crisis which culminated in the modification of the lease with the Air Force releasing about 40 acres to be sold by the city to Marina Electric."

Company Merged

"Later this company merged with Minneapolis-Honeywell. The former owner of Marian Electric felt so strongly about improving the economy of the area that he donated money and sparked the idea of an industrial air park."

"This," Spence said, "now consists of 98 acres, ideally situated between the runways. An additional 113 acres are available on the periphery of the field for industrial expansion."

"Today there are at least five industries located on the airport employing more than 800 people. Between 1961 and 1963, civilian employment doubled; the industrial payroll more than doubled; and tax income to the city jumped more than three times."

Other Examples

On the other side of the coin, there are just as many examples where the lack of airport facilities for industry has cost communities growth.

In one case affecting two towns in northwestern Virginia, privately-owned airports were purchased elsewhere by companies for the development of industrial plants. Officials of the two Virginia towns were unconcerned over the event until they learned that the companies would not proceed with plant development in their cities because they preferred locating where they had airport land.

Industrial air parks do benefit a total community—every citizen—not just the airport officials, airplane owners and industrialists. They create employment, boost payrolls, increase retail sales, add to tax revenues and generally improve the social existence of the entire community.

Greenville Youth Injured as He Runs Into Car

GREENVILLE — A 5-year-old Greenville boy, Bryan Griesbach, suffered a skull fracture and facial cuts this morning when he ran into the side of a passing car in front of his parents' home on State 76.

The boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Griesbach, was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Appleton by Lindy's Ambulance Service.

Driver of the car, which was headed north on State 76, was Robert J. Spooner, 72 Garden Court, Appleton.

According to Outagamie County police who investigated, the boy ran into the right rear door of Spooner's car and was struck by the door handle.

The accident occurred about 10:30 a.m.

Okay Asked for FM Station in Sturgeon Bay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission announced Monday that the Door County Broadcasting Co., of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., had applied for a construction permit for a new 3-kilowatt FM station on 95.9 megacycles at Sturgeon Bay.

until Calumet County Judge D. H. Sebara had a chance to review the minutes of the board of appeals' meeting during which the permits were issued was filed last week by William H. Wilker, assistant Wisconsin attorney general.

Claimed 'Arbitrary'

The request, filed by the state, claimed the action of the board of appeals was "arbitrary, erroneous, unlawful, representing the will, not the judgment (of the board) prejudicial and damaging to the state of Wisconsin," according to Engler.

Before construction can be resumed the County Court will have to inspect the minutes of the meeting.

In a recently released Calumet County brochure, a map of High Cliff State Park was shown to include the entire 350-acre Schneider farm, including a parking lot at the location where his house now stands, and various picnic and parking areas on the Schneider property.

$100,000 Investment

At present Schneider has sunk more than $100,000 into his recreational area which includes trout ponds, wildlife preserves, wooded saddle trails and other recreational facilities, Engler said.

When confronted by this map, Franzen at the June 18 meeting told Engler, "The state has no argument with this map." Franzen was representing the state at this meeting.

Engler explained that before the state can condemn land for park purposes a public necessity must be shown. This need is comparatively easy to show in condemning land for highways, but for park purposes it can be a little more difficult, Engler said.

Pleads Innocent Of Topsy Driving

William V. Elliot, 35, 132 Nye St., Hortonville, pleaded innocent today in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2, of driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Elliot was arrested by Outagamie County police at 2:16 a.m., Saturday on U.S. 41 in the Town of Grand Chute, just west of Meade Street.

He was unable to furnish a $250 bond and was committed to the county jail. Trial was set for Oct. 11.

Judge Forgives Spree After Long, Long Wait

PITTSBURGH (AP) — James Campbell, 41, was arrested when he refused to stop blocking traffic and then gave police trouble before being removed.

Campbell told a police magistrate Monday he had over-impaired while celebrating the birth of his first child — a daughter — in 19 years of marriage.

The charges were dismissed.

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago and North Western Railway Co. and its subsidiaries reported today a net income of $3,807,424 for the first half of 1965, highest for any first six months in the last 20 years.

Net income for the same period in 1964 was $552,030.

Net income per common share was $1.74 in the first half of 1965 as compared with a deficit of $2.06 a share in the same period last year. As of June 30, there were 877,191 shares of common stock outstanding as compared with last year's 839,266.

Total revenues of the company for the first six months of 1965 were $111,822,472, an increase of $5,442,696.

A company spokesman said the improvement in revenues came principally from increased shipments of coal and coke, miscellaneous manufactured products, iron and steel articles, grain, automobiles and increased piggyback movements.

British Fear Revolution In Malaysia

26,000 Chinese
Armed and Ready For Jungle War

KUCHING, Malaysia (AP) — About 26,000 Chinese who side with Peking are believed prepared for armed revolution in the Malaysian Borneo state of Sarawak.

British security officials fear the situation could degenerate into another Viet Nam because of the rugged jungle and presence of combat-ready Indonesians waiting on the border.

The British believe that the Clandestine Communist Organization — CCO — as the Communist Chinese settlers are called, already has started a move to take over the state. They expect more raids like the attack last month by a CCO force, supported by Indonesian regulars, on a police post and neighboring house. Nine persons were killed, including the brother of the chief of the state government.

The CCO has about 2,000 hard core members, British intelligence estimates. A militant potential of 4,000 prepared to take up arms if ordered to do so and 20,000 potential supporters and sympathizers are believed spread through the area.

This is about 15 per cent of Sarawak's adult Chinese population. The Chinese are the largest single group in the state's more than 777,000 people.

Maj. Gen. George Lea, director of British operations in Borneo, says the Chinese in some areas of Sarawak are almost completely dominated by Communists.

Kastenmeier to Conduct Hearing On Viet Nam War

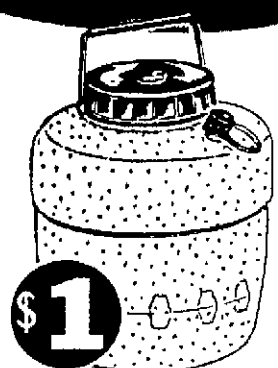

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, D-Wis., is going to conduct his own, unofficial, hearing on the war on Viet Nam.

"There is no more crucial question confronting the people today than the Viet Nam war," Kastenmeier said, "and if there are to be no public hearings in Washington, then, congressional hearings should go to the people back home at the grass-roots level."

A request for public hearings which Kastenmeier and 27 other members of Congress had filed with the House Foreign Affairs Committee has not been honored, Kastenmeier said.

So he scheduled his own public hearing for July 30 at Madison, Wis.

Settle the Tax Fight Now

The curious but fortuitous discovery of a 28 million dollar error in the calculations of the state tax department about the extent of the state's budget deficit should make it easier for the stage-struck politicians in the state legislature to resolve their tedious dispute about how to close the revenue gap.

If the recalcitrant Democrats now continue their adamant resistance to the fair compromise offered by the Republican state administration, there will be ample grounds for concluding that they are more interested in simple partisan aggrandizement than in upholding principle and serving the state's needs.

They will also be defying the precedents on the record of the realistic negotiations concluded in two earlier taxation fights by the titular leaders of their party in those years, former Govs. Nelson and Reynolds. Both men accepted the obvious conclusion that a close division of the Wisconsin electorate, reflected in a divided control of the state government, required compromise to resolve conflicting preferences about fiscal policy. Those Democrats might recall also, and reflect on the fact, that Mr. Nelson was not visibly damaged by his compromise settlements. Indeed, his later election to the U.S. Senate after two terms as governor made him one of the most successful Wisconsin politicians of modern times.

It has become evident that a part of the obduracy of the legislative Democrats today is the memory of former Gov.

Reynolds' defeat by Warren Knowles last November, after a campaign in which state fiscal issues were prominently involved. Their assumption is that Mr. Reynolds lost the election because he consented to some expansion of the sales tax list. Yet a more obvious interpretation of his rejection—without taking into account many other issues that might have contributed to the marginal loss—was an intransigent insistence upon exploiting the sales tax as an issue long after most of his constituents knew that it was no longer practical or possible to avoid such a broadening of the state revenue base. Mr. Reynolds was defeated through his own tactical errors.

Gov. Knowles' personal preferences have long been on the record. He believes that a sales tax program is a required complement to the comparatively high income tax schedule of the state. But he recognized the political realities of his situation, when as long ago as last March he offered a combination of sales and income tax increases to balance his budget proposal. Since that time he has accepted other demands of the Democrats, most notably the corporation franchise tax as an expedient to extract more tax payments from banks in a constitutional way. The governor has leaned as far as he can, in self-respect, and in deference to his position as leader of the majority party of the state. If the Democrats continue to refuse to consider his terms, the blame for the consequences should be easy for anybody to assess.

Fowler Exhibits Foresight in Seeking Monetary Conference

BY MAX FREEDMAN

Between 1950-62 the value of world imports more than doubled but monetary reserves increased by only one-third. In the United States the gold reserves fell from 26 billion dollars at the beginning of 1950 to 17 billion dollars at the end of 1962. During this same period the foreign short term claims on the United States rose from 5.5 billion dollars to 16.9 billion. The external deficit during these thirteen years amounted to 25.9 billion dollars. Not even the large trade surplus could wipe out the deficit caused by such things as military expenses in western Europe, loans, investments, tourist expenditures, and grants-in-aid.

Freedman

These figures are more important than the recent encouraging figures on the balance of payments. For one thing, they reveal the long-term instability which has troubled world trade. For another, they remind us that the current improvement is the result of a major campaign of economy and exhortation launched by the President himself and enforced very vigorously by the Treasury Department. In the nature of things such a campaign cannot be regarded as a permanent policy.

All the same, the recent gains have given the United States the chance to take new initiatives in world finance and to do so in a much stronger bargaining position.

Strains Are Different

It should be understood, for example, that the strain on the dollar has always been different from the strain on the British pound. The United States could always end the strain on its reserves by taking certain defensive actions such as limiting the volume of imports and reducing various expenditures abroad. It refrained from these emergency measures since they would rescue the United States only by plunging other countries into deeper trouble. The United States has tried to remedy its balance of payments by methods which would neither demoralize world trade nor confront other countries with a sudden shortage of dollars.

The British difficulties, by contrast, have many causes, but the shift in the British pattern of trade and the failure to sell more in the United States are clearly the two most important causes. Yet the pound sterling is still an active and strong currency essential to the whole movement of world trade. That is why the British position is so sympathetically understood in Washington and why Britain is not considered as a mere petitioner for aid even though the pound has had to be helped periodically by the International Monetary Fund.

But Great Britain and the United States, having essentially different problems, have naturally approached these financial issues from different points of view. British financial authorities believe the first concern should be with the financing of world trade and with the stability of sterling and the dollar as reserve currencies of universal value. They regret that the United States has given its first priority to restoring its own balance and protecting the dollar. They take this position because they are convinced that the dollar would remain stable and strong once world trade were adequately financed and moved without artificial restrictions. At present these differences in national approach have more theoretical than practical significance. For there are impressive reasons for believing that Great Britain and the United States will work very closely together in the intricate and important negotiations that face us. Henry Fowler, the secretary of the treasury, surely states the American position correctly when he argues that it is only the growing evidence of the dollar's stability which makes it possible for the United States to move so vigorously towards new international monetary arrangements.

SHOWS DIPLOMATIC SKILL

His whole approach is marked not only by economic prudence but by diplomatic skill. He is seeking the active support of Congress and of both parties. Without trying to enforce an American solution, he is seeking agreement among the leading trading nations on the basis of the widest possible exchange of views. This procedure means that a world monetary conference, if it meets some months from now, will meet only when it has the clearest assurances of success.

It has always seemed rather strange, in terms of economic logic, that the world should have established an international monetary mechanism before it agreed on the rules of trade. Yet an inherent and prophetic wisdom dictated that the Bretton Woods conference should precede the Geneva trade system known as GATT. At Bretton Woods Lord Keynes and the other master-spirits who shaped that agreement knew that finance was the key to expanded trade. The International Monetary Fund is their monument and their vindication. Now, in a world of new stress and change, it is necessary to make certain adjustments not foreseen at Bretton Woods but wholly consistent with its spirit. Secretary Fowler is off to a very good start indeed in this important task.

Public Seems Bored As Legislature Still Fritters Away Time

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—There is a little of the instinct of the stage ham in most of the politicians in the legislature. Probably without it most of them would not have ventured to submit themselves to the approval of their neighbors at the elections. So it is not entirely surprising that many of these men believe that the state is waiting with bated breath for their solution of the so-called financial crisis at the state house.

Wyngaard

This appraisal may be a blow to their self-esteem, but the idea of excitement and suspense in the precincts about the deliberations of these fellows and their ultimate decision—if any—is greatly exaggerated.

Unless this observer's ears are defective and his vision similarly impaired, what has resulted in the body politic in the long and weary weeks of the legislature's hassle about how to tax the taxpayer is a vast boredom. If the men on the floor of either chamber are interested in a fair test, let them glance upward to the public galleries on any morning of any one of their sessions. This is the season for the tourist flow to Madison. The capitol is one of the favorite sights, drawing hundreds daily. But the visitors in the galleries can be counted on most days on two hands.

THE REASONS

From the viewpoint of public attention, the timing of the biennial "crisis" talk in the capitol is unfortunate. It requires a diligent and responsible citizen, indeed, to pay more than passing heed to the statehouse show at a time when vacation activities are in full swing, when there are golf greens to entice, and backyards to mow and children to entertain at the zoo, and holiday travel dates at hand.

As Gov. Knowles said the other day, with perhaps a hint of wistfulness, there is yet no sign that the constituents of the stubbornly divided legislature have applied any pressure whatever upon their representatives, which undoubtedly accounts in large part for the frustratingly inconclusive and plodding nature of the negotiations.

Yet the legislative politician might wisely spare some thought for the reaction of the occasional citizen of a thoughtful frame of mind who is observing what has been going on in Madison.

Among such the image of the legislature has surely been damaged considerably.

It is said, with monotonous repetition that this is the inevitable consequence of the indecision of the electorate about entrusting the political parties with control of the legislative process. Yet that is not wholly convincing.

PURPOSEFUL DELAY

There is a suspicion that these men could make more progress toward an honorable resolution of their disagreements—if they were determined to do so. There is reason for believing that the average legislator is too much inclined to delegate these matters to his caucus chiefs, on the one hand, and that the caucus chiefs are more interested in recording partisan issues, real or fancied, for the next round of electoral combat than in expeditiously pursuing the constitutional function of the legislature.

I cannot remember a legislature that has worked at a more leisurely pace. Three days a week, of short hours, has been the stint thus far, with most members away from their home districts for only two nights weekly. Most committees have held only one meeting a week.

As a guess from the bleachers where the tedium is becoming painful, most people who are concerned about public affairs expect more from the men they sent to Madison.

Sound Education Has Two Basic Elements

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In his classic little book of generation ago, "The Alms of Education," Whitehead makes the point—too often forgotten or ignored—that education in its best sense really consists of two things, not one.

Harris

It consists of knowing a great many different subjects fairly well, and knowing one subject very well. A person is not truly educated if—like a doctor or lawyer or engineer in modern America—he knows only one thing very well, and other things hardly at all.

By the same token, the generalist is not truly an educated person. If he has only a smattering—or even more than a smattering—of many subjects, and is able to move easily among them. This is the fault, and fallacy, of a "liberal arts" education that concentrates on nothing in particular.

It is easy to see that the narrow specialist is not educated, for he does not grasp the relationship between his field and other fields. It is harder to see that the glib generalist is not educated either, however fluently he may discourse on a number of "cultural" topics.

The value of learning one subject thoroughly is this: not merely that we come to know the subject, but that we come to know what knowing really consists in. This is of the utmost importance.

Rigorous application to a particular subject—no matter what the subject is—shows the student what knowledge consists of, so that he is aware when he possesses it, and when he does not. For it is the invariable hallmark of the half-educated person (who is much more dangerous than the plain ignoramus) that he thinks he knows what he does not know.

The whole point of learning one thing well is to learn how extremely difficult is to attain knowledge: how much labor, patience, and precision it calls for; and how modest and tentative we must be in assuming that we "know" something before we have given it such labor, patience and precision.

The trouble with a specialized education is that it overlooks whole areas of human activity; the trouble with a "broad" education is that it ranges too widely and diffusely, and enables the student to sound (and feel) knowledgeable without having taken the pains to learn exactly what knowledge is, as opposed to prejudice, opinion, speculation, and theory.

Knowledge is like love: it must be directed toward a specific object; it cannot be held in the abstract. Only when we learn to love someone can we detect the counterfeits of love; and only when we know something specific can we compare this knowledge with or ignorance in some other field. In humility lies the beginning of wisdom.

Pitching with an arthritic elbow, Sandy Koufax leads in wins and strikeouts. The Dodgers are unhappy about it—they've just heard that arthritis is not contagious.

LBJ admits he's changed his position on race relations—but he hopes everyone will respect his swivel rights.

U. S. fliers are sort of pleased about those missile bases near Hanoi. Now they have a chance to fly up there occasionally just to see the sites.

Wernher von Braun says in 30 years people will hold regular jobs on the moon—sort of full-time moonlighting.

Now an Oath Not to Discriminate

Officials of a Lutheran parish in Wisconsin which operates its own elementary school have announced that they will no longer receive help under the federal school lunch program. They do not want to sign the new requirement that they do not discriminate because of race or color.

However, the reason is not that they do discriminate or believe in racial segregation. As a spokesman for the church pointed out, the new statement now appears to make a federal prerogative something which is a Christian moral duty and really not the business of the federal government.

For some time there has been wrathful opposition to various loyalty oaths required in some states for those receiving public money. Teachers have protested that such oaths tended to set them apart as more likely to be suspect of disloyalty. Students applying for various loans and grants have also protested the requirements. Such an oath was even asked of Senator Gaylord Nelson before he made a speech in a western state, not because he was under suspicion of subversive activities, but because the state had a law requiring the signing of the oath before any remuneration from state funds was made.

Opponents of the oath—and we are among them—have protested that this type of requirement was an insult, it singled out certain classifications of citizens as more suspicious because of their quite rightful

Lyndon-Come-Lately

President Johnson's slam at the Republican alternative civil rights bill, which was defeated in the Democratically controlled Congress, was purely a political move and unworthy of the man who is President of the United States as well as leader of his particular political party.

The President claimed that the Republican bill would have seriously damaged the right to vote of a lot of Americans. He went on to suggest that the Republican record on civil rights generally was poor. But as Republican House leader Gerald Ford pointed out, he was being a "Lyndon-come-lately." The President's remarks were aimed obviously at the votes of Negroes and other civil rights enthusiasts in future elections.

The trouble is that the President's own past voting record on civil rights was weak indeed until it became a major issue somewhat bigger than the southern viewpoint to which he catered as Representative and Senator. It can readily be understood that President Johnson felt it necessary to go along with the southern viewpoint whatever his personal feelings if he wanted to get elected to Congress over and over. But he is living in a glass house as far as throwing civil rights stones at Republicans is concerned.

Furthermore the final vote on the voting rights bill of the Administration contains some interesting figures. However they voted on their own bill which had previously lost, 112 Republicans joined 221 Democrats in approving the bill. 24 Republicans voted against but 61 Democrats also voted against it.

The Republicans became tarred with an anti-civil rights brush unfairly through their own internal struggles at their national convention last year. The unfavorable image certainly cost them a lot of votes. But the President of the United States ought to leave it up to members of his party in Congress or campaign speeches to try to make political hay out of this chaff.

'Cat in Meal Tub,' Cries Crescent

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for July 22, 1865.

We knew it long ago: that the Madison Regency had a programme which didn't look to the nomination (for governor) of the Fairchild with the empty sleeve! (Gen. Lucius Fairchild)

And we heard a whisper borne upon the winds that Gen'l Cadwallader C. Washburn of LaCrosse—he of much money and little brains—is to be pressed as a High Tariff, Negro Suffrage, National Bank and National-Debt-Forever candidate for the nomination of the high-binders to the Executive Office of this state.

Washburn is the general who distinguished himself in the late War by a vigorous campaign at Memphis, and who wore himself to a "shadder"

The conspirators (Republican) have been at work steadily and quite successfully in arranging for delegations to bring out that tableau; and now we see that Little Turn-up-Jack-every-time Turner has been authorized to lift the cover and announce to the gaping Republicans that the venerable black cat is in the meal tub, ready for a spring!

Let them nominate Washburn and denounce Johnson's reconstruction policy—if they DARE!

Three Cheers For Fair

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Three cheers for the Outagamie County Fair! The entertainment that we witnessed on Thursday night was absolutely top notch. It seems that every year it gets better and could certainly be compared to what they have at State Fairs all over this country.

We took our whole family along and there was something for each one to take special interest in. We hope that this will continue in the following years, good clean fun for the kids and grown-ups together.
